This is a hyperlinked text file.
It looks like a book but acts like a webpage:

The top line of the title page is linked to the table of contents.

Each line in the table of contents is linked to its sketch.

The person atop a sketch is linked to its respective child line.

A child with a + sign is linked to its respective parent sketch.

Each line in the table of illustrations is linked to its picture.

Each footnote superscript is linked to its footnote.

The cursor changes to a pointing finger above a link. Then click.

Text in red is unsubstantiated at this printing, or claimed but not supported by proof, or is a question I am asking for possible future answer, or is in some other way to be considered temporary. An advantage of electronic publishing is that I can continue to improve and update the text while the mass of valid information is made available now. It is important therefore that citations mention the version number, that red items not be cited, and that the color be preserved.

LINEAGE LIST NOTATION

This document is written in “Register format,” a format popular with scholarly genealogists named for the New England Historic Genealogical Society (NEHGS) and its learned journal the NEGHS Register. To facilitate stepping “backward” through the genealogy, I utilize one small addition to standard (actually “modified”) Register format. A leading subscript to a person in a lineage list is the person number for that individual in this work. For example, Caleb Smith⁶ Riggs (₇₀Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, Edward³, Edward², Edward¹) was son of person 70, Joseph⁵ Riggs (₃₇Joseph⁴, Edward³, Edward², Edward¹), who in turn was son of person 37, Joseph⁴ Riggs, and so forth. This technique may be applied to any person in a lineage list. However, to reduce visual clutter, I will use it here for at most one person per lineage list, usually the first.

A superscript asterisk () indicates the first person in a lineage list who is not genetically related to the next older person in the list. For example, Skylor Nathan^{13} Knoll (*Martha Jane*¹², *Edward Clark*¹¹, *Theodore Dalzel A.*¹⁰, *Edward*⁹, *Elias*⁸, *Elias*⁷, *Preserve*⁶, *Zebulon*⁵, *?Joseph*⁴, *Edward*³, *Edward*², *Edward*¹) was an adopted son of Martha Jane¹² Riggs. Note also the question mark (?) in this lineage list, indicating that the father-son relationship of Joseph⁴ and Zebulon⁵ has not been proved.

It is traditional in American genealogy to label the immigrant’s generation as no. 1. The generation preceding his is A, preceding A is B, and so forth.

METHODOLOGY AND STYLE NOTES

Un sourced material. Some claims without accompanying sources are important to preserve, as hints to future researchers or simply to indicate that I am aware of commonly claimed dates, names, or places, but am not certain of them. I enter these in footnotes and not in the main text. I do not always explicitly flag these claims as unsourced, but they should be understood as such by their presence in the footnotes only. This type of information often comes from compiled, but unfortunately unsourced, genealogies that have the appearance, to me at least, of being well researched and based on solid evidence. The footnote hint might inspire a future researcher to find the elusive evidence, whereas I had not done so by the time this book went to press.

Census litany. Rather than trying to be creative on each of dozens of census readings, I have chosen to state them with a common “litany.” To make census litanies easy to spot, I usually introduce each one with the year. For example, a reading from the U.S. census for 1900 will begin “In 1900”

Online sources. I have made much use of online sources, usually secondary, such as the listing of gravestones in a particular cemetery. The problem with this practice is the supposed ephemeral nature of the web. Many online sources may simply disappear from the web over time, or change addresses at least. I have therefore made a copy of every webpage used in this work and archived it for future reference. Very notable exceptions are the many databases available from major servers, such as <Ancestry.com>, which I assume, with some trepidation, will be permanently available by some means. The URL for a website is identified by enclosing < > brackets. When a URL needs to wrap at the end of a line for good visual appearance, I have inserted a hyphen in an appropriate location. This line-breaking hyphen should be omitted, of course, when the URL is used as an internet address.

Abbreviations. I use abbreviations. With one exception, I always abbreviate state names and month names. The exception: I do not abbreviate state names in the main text that stand alone. However, state names in footnotes are always abbreviated, even in the titles of books.

I do not abbreviate anything in a quotation. An abbreviation in a quotation is present in the original.

I use succinct forms for the sources in footnotes. The bibliography should be consulted for full expansion of a source reference. See the abbreviations section of the front matter for the full list of abbreviations used in the census references. In all cases, the census was read from <Ancestry.com>, and the roll numbers correspond to the microfilm series used by that organization.

PREFACE

This is a living document, which is just a way of saying that it is incomplete. It can be added to or corrected at any time. I expect family members to suggest changes and additions. Items in red are facts lacking proof or otherwise indicate questionable information. I hope that together we can “take the red out.”

On 6 Mar. 2021 I changed the version number from v1.33 to v2.0 to mark the moment when I received five pages from Dinn (1976), numbered 9–13, in the mail from Barbara Robertson. I expected to be inspired by those Dinn book to make changes and additions, and wanted to be clear when that influence began.

Those five pages were a crude listing of three or four generations, being a list of persons with his or her spouse(s) and children, but with no proofs at all. I used those pages as a guide to the records and fleshed out the Robertson genealogy, with full proofs, up through v2.45. I generally found the family as listed on those five pages as accurate with these exceptions:

1. For the Esther (Robertson) Webb family, daughter Hannah was missing; the wife of James Webb was missing; and the wife of Thomas Webb was incorrectly listed as Becky Thorpe (should have been Rebecca Ann Brill).
2. For the Blaze Robertson m. Mary Robertson family, daughter Elizabeth was missing; and I could not prove that daughter Abigail married James Reed as listed.
3. For the William M. Robertson m. Elizabeth Sewell , m. Marguerite Jacobs family, I could not prove that son George married Elizabeth Kress as listed; and son James William had two more marriages than the one listed.
4. For the James Robertson m. Phoebe Jacobs family, I came up with children named Lunceton, Clarisa, and Rosana rather than the Lancaster, Clara, and Rose as given; daughter Mata was not listed.
5. For the William Keith Robertson m. Sarah Brown family, I could not prove the Keith middle name; and my list of children differed in several ways; my ordering was different; son James B. was missing; and daughter Florence's spouse was missing.

6. For the Mortimer C. Hamilton m. Lucinda etc. family, I found several items that didn't agree; I could not prove that son Wirt married Catherine Legan as listed; I have daughter Maude married to a different man than the one listed.
7. For the Elizabeth Hamilton m. Oliver Sheen Wilson family, I found several different results, and finally wrote "mangled" in the margin of p. 11 by that family's listing.
8. I could go on and on, but there are numerous differences between what I found in the records versus what appears on pp. 9-13. Nevertheless, those pages gave me a structure to work against. Perhaps the full Dinn book will straighten out many of these errors.

On 12 May 2021, with the current version number of my Robertson book being v2.45, I opened the sealed box from Barbara Roberston that contained the entire two volumes of the Dinn (1976) resource:

The first spiral bound volume, Part 1, contains (resembling chapters separated by yellow sheets) the following, totaling 270 pages:

1. Title page and introduction, 134 pages (127 numbered pages plus seven additional pages: 24 pages after the page numbered 92, numbered 92+1, . . . , 92+4, and A-T; and 7 pages after the page numbered 127 numbered A-G). The five pages discussed above are from this chapter, so designated Dinn (1976), 1:9-13.
2. Esther Robertson Webb Family, 12 numbered pages
3. John Robertson Family, 124 numbered pages.

The second spiral bound volume, Part 2, contains (also separated by yellow sheets) the following, totaling 233 pages:

4. William Robertson Family, 28 numbered pages
5. Rebecca Robertson Hamilton Family, 51 numbered pages
6. Rachel Robertson Chilcott Family, 3 numbered pages
7. George Robertson Family, 31 numbered pages

8. Andrew Robertson Family, 120 numbered pages.

I have numbered these “chapters” 1 through 8 for convenience. The five pages mentioned above several times are then Dinn (1976), 1:9–13. The entire book totals 503 pages (numbered but restarting at 1 in each chapter), not counting the separator pages.

Inserted inside the cover of the first volume were:

A supplement to the Blaze and Hetty Robertson genealogy, 26 numbered pages

Two letters in envelopes addressed to Barbara Robertson and her husband

A letter from John A. Robertson to his children dated 26 Mar. 1925, 1 page

A listing of the Blaze Robertson collection S1125 at the Indiana State Library, 6 numbered pages.

One of the delights of Dinn (1976) was the inclusion of images of actual family Bible pages. I have scanned these and added them to this book as primary sources. See the Picture Credits for complete sourcing.

On 11 July 2021 I changed the version number to v3.0 because of new records found by Nathan Murphy FASG, which pushed the family back one generation to Blaze’s parents in London. He also developed information that supports the notion that Blaze came to Maryland, not Virginia, in his transportation. Note that I am making the calculated leap here that the convict Blaze from the Old Bailey was indeed Blaze, progenitor of the family in this book. The argument is circumstantial but growing stronger, as will become clear.

THE DNA EVIDENCE

As the DNA evidence collects, it will be discussed here. For succinctness, I will use this code for marker values:

a=1, b=2, . . . , z=26, A=27, B=28, . . . , Z=52

Our first genetic signature on 67 markers is the following (kit 192362), whose descent is proved in this book:

mwnkkmllmmCpijklxnsCopqrkjswqpqqJMnlkiophjjhlwwpjlmohlutmlkmmkml

The following signatures are from FamilyTreeDNA.com for the Robertson surname (or Robson or Robeson). Markers in red differ from the corresponding marker in George Thomas⁶ Robertson's signature. Two signatures are considered a match if they differ on 3 or fewer of 67 markers (2 or fewer of 37 markers):^[1]

Kit 223451: Barry James Robson, ancestor Thomas Waters Robson, born supposedly 1825, died 1869 (a 65/67 match):

mwnkkmllmmCpijklxnsCopqrkjswqpqqJLmlkiophjjhlwwpjlmohlutmlkmmkml

Kit 174490: Michael McClean Robson, ancestor George Robson, born supposedly about 1824, UK, married 1847 (a 36/37 match):

mwnkkmllmmCpijklxnsCopqrkjswqpqqJLnI

Kit 84744: ancestor born in England (a 66/67 match):

mwnkkmllmmCpijklxnsCopqrkjswqpqqJLnIkiophjjhlwwpjlmohlutmlkmmkml

1. To be more precise, a genetic distance of 0, 1, 2, or 3 is typically taken to be a "match" on 67 markers, with high probability. It's not the number of markers, but how far they've changed. In the cases here, the change is typically distance of 1 per marker, so counting markers is essentially the same as measuring distance. N.B. this is not a rule. A true descendant might have more than the typical number of mutations. But if there are 3 or fewer mutations on 67 markers (2 or fewer mutations on 37 markers), then the chances are good that the two are related via an MRCA (Most Recent Common Ancestor).

Kit 124593: Robert Shortridge (!), ancestor Andrew Shortridge, supposedly born 1638, Roxburghshire, Scotland (a 66/67 match):

mwnkkmlmmCpjjlkxnsCoprkrkjswqpqqJmnlkiophjjhjlwwpjlmohlutmlkmmkml

Kit 16327: Walter J. Robertson Jr., ancestor Richard Robertson, born about 1850, Scotland (a 64/67 match):

mwnkkmlmmDpjjlkxnsCopqrkjswqpqqKLnlkiophjjhjlwwpjlmohlutmlkmmkml

Note the L for marker no. 35 in all members of this group—except for our George Thomas⁶ Robertson and Robert Shortridge. This could be an important flag for distinguishing Robertson subfamilies.

And here’s one that just barely misses being a match with high probability (but it might still be a relative), with the L in position 35:

Kit 77788: ancestor John Robson, born supposedly about 1802, Northumberland, England (a 34/37 mismatch):

mwnkkmlmmCpjjmkxnsCopqrkjswqpqqJLnl

According to his gravestone, he died at age 66 (in his 67th year), which makes his calculated birthdate about 1744. From his baptismal record (Figure 1), and assuming they are the same man, he actually died at age 64 years 6 months 28 days (in his 65th year). He was buried (1), next to his daughter Nancy, in a cemetery on the Wilkins Farm, near Lost River, Hardy Co., [W.]Va.^[6] See Figure 2, Figure 10, and Figure 11. He was (re)buried (2) in Mathias Community Cem., Mathias, Hardy Co., [W.]Va., his body being removed there from the original burial site before a dam caused flooding of that site. The Robertson Cem., Seymour, Jackson Co., Ind., has a Revolutionary War marker for him, near his wife's grave.^[7] He married, presumably about 1777 given the birthdate of his daughter Nancy, HANNAH HUTCHINSON, who was born 1750 (gravestone), died 1836, and was buried in Robertson Cem., Seymour, Jackson Co., Ind.^[8]

N.B. West Virginia separated from Virginia in 1863. I will use [W.]Va. or [West] Virginia, for this situation. Berkeley County formed in 1772. Hardy County formed in 1786. Both were in the top hump of Virginia, then became part of the panhandle of West Virginia in 1863—its easternmost part forming a hook inserted above the top of modern Virginia and beneath the western panhandle of Maryland.

Young Blaze and the Old Bailey

On 10 Apr. 1764, Blaze “Robinson” and William Forden were brought before justices at the Old Bailey in London for stealing the following items:

For Steal on 9th. March last at St. Giles in the Fields twenty nine Stuff Gowns Val £3. four Gape Gowns Val 12s. two Cotton Gowns Val 6s. Ten Linnen Bed Gowns Val 10s. one Stuff Petticoat Val 4s Eight Flannel Petticoats Val 4s. four Cloth Coats Val 4s. Fifteen Linnen Shirts Val 15s. Clough Widow privately in her Shop.^[9]

On 2 May 1764, Blaze “Robinson” and William Forden were tried and convicted (see appendix E for details) and “Ordered to be Transported to some of his Majesty’s Colonies or Plantations in America for the Space of seven Years.”^[10]

Blaze “Robinson” and William Forden, both sentenced in Middlesex County to transportation May 1764, were transported June 1764 to Virginia, aboard the Dolphin, Capt. Dougal McDougal.^[11]

Dougal McDougal, in Jun 1764, (PRO: T1/429/148),” 181, under Middlesex are listed William Forden and Blaze Robinson, 141 convicts total.

In 1764 Blaze “Robinson” and William Forden arrived in America.^[12] More particularly, they arrived in Virginia (but see next), convicted for transport.^[13]

But notice this comment, from another authority, which appears to say that they arrived in Maryland, not Virginia [emphasis added]:

Again it must be said that this list cannot be taken as complete. For example, the Dolphin, Captain Dougal McDougal, sailed from London with 141 convicts on June 2, 1764. She is registered in the Annapolis returns as arriving on August 14, but no mention of convicts is made in the record. Thus these 141 are not included in the above table, though it is morally certain that they came to Maryland.^[14]

To further cement the conclusion that Blaze was probably brought to Maryland, not Virginia, are the findings by FASG colleague, Nathan Murphy. He found eight runaway advertisements for transportees shipped over in June 1764 aboard the Dolphin, showing where they served their indentures. In all eight cases, they served in Maryland, mostly in Baltimore Co. or Anne Arundel Co. Here are three of them who were sentenced in Middlesex, as was Blaze, and transported with him. All three were indentured in the iron industry, all probably in Baltimore Co., Md.:

Note that Blaze Robertson, born 30 June 1745, would have been just 19 in 2 June–14 Aug. 1764 when he arrived in America. He would have been disallowed a return to England for the period ending about Aug. 1771.

My FASG colleagues have instructed me that the typical way a transported convict, such as Blaze, was dealt with was this: He was owned by the ship owner and captain, who paid for the voyage by selling his indenture to persons awaiting the arrival of the ships for just this purpose. The indenture (also for seven years) could be reassigned. In other words, there was a marketplace dockside for the indentures. So it is (partially) consistent with the Blaze Robertson legend that he served an indenture to pay for his voyage.

A possible master for Blaze's indenture might be Edward Downy, deduced from an alphabetical "List of sundry letters remaining in the Post-Office at Baltimore, June 6, 1767," about 3 years into his indenture:

Patriotic Service in the Revolutionary War

There is a strong claim among Blaze Robertson's descendants that he provided patriotic service—as opposed to military service—to the Revolution. Patriotic service is accepted by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) as meeting their eligibility requirement for a proposed member. The same holds for the SAR (“Sons of . . .”). In other words a DAR ancestor does not have to have fought in the Revolution, only provided service to the American side.

Blaze received funds, and accounted for them in an account book, from acknowledged American Revolutionary War figures, thus supplying patriotic service. The account book has been preserved and includes the following entries on two facing pages (Figure 15):

Aug st 13. 1777 Rece^d of Col. Baylor, for the Service of Recruiting—£54 0

Aug 19th Recei^d of C^o Baylor the common allowance for a horse—£36 0

Oct[b^r] 25 Received of C. Carter £106 1[2]

Nov^r 22 [7[Oct?]86?] Received of the Hon^r Ro. Morris of Pensylvania £230 0 Virgin[ia 6?]

[?] Paid to James G[o?]ddy for 4 doz. of silver buttons—£5 0 0

[?]8. 77 Paid Captain Fielding Lewis recruiting money entrusted me by Col^o Baylor—£90 0 0

Nov^r 1[?] To John Victor money Lent £12 0 0

Nov^r 11 Paid for W^m Hamilton at G[raveis?] 0 12 6

Nov^r 12 Paid for W. Hamilton at Beals 0 7 0

Nov^r 12 Forrage for the troop horses at Bea[ls?] Maryland 0 1[2?] 6

Just the existence of the book and the fact that it belonged to Blaze (his name is on it) is alone enough to establish Blaze's patriotic service. It would be better if we knew who he kept the book for, but I don't think that is required.

The next interesting thing to establish is the provenance of this account book. Who was it kept for? It is claimed that he kept it for Gen. Adam Stephen, but this has not been established in my view (see Legends, below).

Col. George Baylor is a candidate for the Col. Baylor of the account book. A good summary of him appears online in "George Baylor: Spirited, Willing and Wrong for the Job."^[19] Baylor was aide-de-camp to Gen. George Washington, but not well-suited for the job. He suffered a major defeat on 27 Sept. 1778 in what is known as Baylor's Massacre, or the Baylor Dragoon Massacre. Nevertheless, he is an established patriot who appears in Blaze's account book. The following names, all of which appear on the two pages just transcribed from Blaze's book, were all in Baylor's Regiment (the Third Continental Light Dragoons): George Baylor, Capt. Fielding Lewis, John Victor, and William Hamilton.^[20]

Family Legends about Blaze

I collect here the various legends associated with Blaze Robertson. I tiptoe into this mine field because these stories are held with conviction by descendants, but I could find no evidence that promoted them from the legendary to historical fact. We shall see that, however, that like most family legends, there is a hint of truth in them.

Legend: Blaze was deprived of his English estate. Here is an example from Dinn (1979), 1:9, of an abiding story, in a section titled "Reminiscences" by Charles Boswell [Charles⁵ Boswell (89Clara May⁴, Blaze³, John R.², Blaze¹):

19. J. L. Bell, "George Baylor: Spirited, Willing and Wrong for the Job," Journal of the American Revolution, 12 Oct. 2015, <allthingsliberty.com/2015/10/george-baylor-spirited-willing-and-wrong-for-the-job/>, accessed 27 Feb. 2021.

20. Christine L. Langner, Baylor's Regiment: The Third Continental Light Dragoons, Berwyn Heights, Md.: Heritage Books, 2015, 12-16 (George Baylor), 86-87 (William Hamilton), 115 (Fielding Lewis), 176-177 (John Victor), .

From stories told to him (1898–1900) by his grandfather, Blaze Robertson, 1814–1901.

The first Blaze Robertson who came to America, was the eldest son of a Robertson in Northumberland County, England. He was supposed to inherit from his father the family estate, but his father's brother had designs on the property so he shipped the young Blaze, 12–15 years of age, on a boat to Virginia, where he was bound out to a planter in Virginia until he was 21.

Let's examine the bare bones of this story. Charles⁵ would have been 8–10 years old at the time of his grandfather Blaze³'s stories, and Blaze³ would have been about 84–86 years old. So these were stories from an old man to a young boy. Blaze³ was not alive during the lifetime of Blaze¹, which the evidence suggests to have been 1744–1810. Thus there was at least one layer of storyteller between Blaze¹'s telling of events and grandson Blaze³'s hearing them. Then Blaze³ had to hold onto the stories through several decades before telling them to the boy Charles⁵.

We have no evidence that Blaze¹ came from Northumberland Co., England, nor any evidence that he came from a landed family anywhere. The one piece of evidence of a Blaze Robertson who immigrated to America from England to Virginia at about the right time suggests that Blaze¹ was a young thief in London, England, sentenced to exile in Virginia for seven years, for robbing a woman's clothing shop. If this was Blaze¹, then he would have been about 20 at the sentencing and the voyage to Virginia (or possibly Maryland) in 1764. Because of the seven-year sentence, he would not have been completely free in America (for example, free to return to England) until he was 27, in 1771. The practice at the time was for people in Virginia to purchase the indentured service of these convicts at dockside, to pay the ship captain for transporting them to America.

It seems likely that Blaze¹, not proud of this background, devised the story of indentured service for his transportation over—to escape the nasty shenanigans of his uncle—but omitted the real reason for the transportation, nor that it came with a term of seven years. But I hasten to add that this is conjecture. No evidence directly links the thief Blaze with Blaze¹ of this book. It's the story of indentured service to pay for transportation at just about the right time and places—with that unusual name—that ties the two together, rather convincingly if only circumstantially.

The DNA Evidence section mentions Robertsons or Robesons or Robinsons with a DNA match to the Blaze¹ family and who come from England. But the one of these supposedly derived from Northumberland does not have DNA with a sufficiently strong match to the DNA of a proved male descendant of Blaze¹ to serve as evidence of a family relationship.

One further note: The earliest definite land record we have for Blaze¹ Robertson of this book is the 1779 lease of land from Sarah Hite (see the next section). This comes well after the 1771 term on thief Blaze's sentence. The Revolutionary War occurred in that gap. Indeed, the earliest record of any sort that we have for Blaze¹—assuming for the moment that the Old Bailey and transportation records for the thief Blaze are not about Blaze¹—is the account book Blaze kept, which has already been mentioned. It contains numerous items dated 1777. We talk about this book again in the following paragraphs.

Legend: Blaze was indentured to Gen. Adam Stephen. In a continuation of the legend above, this one has it that Gen. Adam Stephen, of Revolutionary War fame and also dishonor (see appendix B), held the indenture for immigrant Blaze¹. I have seen no evidence for this claim.

It is true that Blaze leased land in 1779 from the famous and extensive Jost Hite family—famous for establishing the Shenandoah Valley for American settlers (appendix A)—and that Gen. Adam Stephen (appendix B) owned nearby land. But so did Gen. Charles Lee, another general of Revolutionary War fame and also dishonor (appendix C).

I have seen no evidence that connects Gen. Adam Stephen to Blaze¹ directly (cf. see the next legend). That he lived in the vicinity of men of historic stature—Hite, Stephen, and Lee, for example—is certainly true. That he knew them or worked for them has not been established, in my opinion, with the one exception that he leased land from Sarah Hite and raised apple trees for her as a condition of the lease.

Legend: Blaze kept an account book for Gen. Adam Stephen in the Revolutionary War. That Blaze¹ kept an account book for someone during the Revolutionary War for American patriotic services rendered during that war—for example, 1777—is in no doubt (see Figure 15). The book still exists and some of the entries in it are legible. Blaze’s name is on the cover, barely legible I am told. The book is in the collection of a museum dedicated to Gen. Adam Stephen, but I am unconvinced so far that it has been established to have been kept for Gen. Adam Stephen himself. Perhaps that museum has the proof, but there is no evidence of it available that I have found. Couldn’t Blaze have kept the book for Gen. Charles Lee as an alternative? Or for Col. Baylor? I have not seen a proper provenance. Note that this is not proof, one way or the other.

Legend: Blaze was granted land for his Revolutionary War service. Blaze was not a soldier in the Revolutionary War, so it is unlikely that he would have been granted land for his “service” of keeping an account book. Furthermore, the land usually cited as the proceeds of this grant, 114 acres in Hardy Co., [W.]Va., was not granted originally to Blaze. It was granted to Richard Jewell and was subsequently assigned to Blaze in 1798.

Legend: Blaze managed Gen. Adam Stephen’s estate. This legend fits nicely with the account book being for Gen. Adam Stephen, and with the legend that the General paid for Blaze’s indentured service, and with the fact that Blaze resided in the vicinity of (not on) Gen. Adam Stephen’s land beginning (documented, see next) in 1778. But there is not a single piece of evidence that I have been able to find that links Gen. Adam Stephen directly to Blaze Robertson. Gen. Charles Lee substituted everywhere Gen. Adam Stephen appears in this legend would also fit. In particular, the land Blaze leased in 1779 was also near lands owned by Gen. Lee. And Gen. Lee also had dealings with George Washington (and, like Gen. Stephen, had a falling out with Washington.) Again, one piece of evidence could set this record straight. Now we turn to established fact.

Berkeley Co., [W.]Va., Deeds and Taxes, 1779–1793

On 11 May 1779 Sarah Hite of Berkeley Co., [W.]Va., leased to Blaze Robertson [var. “Robinson”], for 16 years (commencing 26 Aug. 1778), 100 acres “on the Western side of hopewell a branch of Opeccon and being the same whereon the said Blaze Robertson now lives.” The waterway is formally the Hopewell Run of Opequon Creek. See Figure 7–Figure 8 for the actual lease and its transcription. The lease was witnessed by Cornelius Duvall and Joshua Yerkes, among others. This lease would have terminated 26 Aug. 1794.

We can suppose that the lease was predated to 26 Aug. 1778 because Blaze had been living on it since then, but we don’t know that for a fact.

Also on 11 May 1779 Sarah Hite made two other leases, to Cornelius Duvall (for 6 years) and to Joshua Yerkes (for 12 years), with Blaze Robertson [var. Robinson] witness to both leases. See Figure 3–Figure 6 for the actual leases and their transcriptions.

The Duvall tract was in Berkeley County “adjoining the Lands of Doctor John Lee James Lee General Charles Lee bounded on the Western side by hopewell Branch a Branch of Opeccon and adjoining the Land of James Wallingsford General Adam Stephen and Joshua Yerkes it being part of the said Plantation whereon John Hite Jun^r Deceased lately Dwelt.” See appendix A for partial transcription of the 13 Dec. 1775 deed by Sarah’s father-in-law Jacob Hite to “Charles Lee Esq^r Major General of the Army of the United Colonies of North America.”

The Yerkes tract was 50 acres, also in Berkeley County, “bounded by Lands of Doctor John Lee James Lee Colonel Blackburn General Stephen and Cornelius Duvall and being the same Lands whereon the said Joshua Yerkes now Dwells.”

Placeholder: Joshua Yerkes Jr. married 19 Nov. 1801, Berkeley, W.Va.,^[21] Elizabeth Bleads, daughter of James and Martha (Riley) Bleads. Note that Joshua [probably Sr.]’s lease would have terminated about 1791.

21. W.Va., U.S., Marriages Index, 1785–1971, Joshua Yerkes Jr., male, to Elizabeth Bleads, female, 19 Nov. 1801, Berkeley Co., W.Va., father James Bleads, mother Martha Bleads Riley.

Joshua Jr. was probably he born 17 Aug. 1772, Jefferson Co., Va., died 28 Feb. 1872, buried Gibson Cem., Bright, Dearborn Co., Ind., spouse Margarette Yerkes.^[22] Joshua “Yerkess” married 11 Sept. 1806, Washington Co., Md.,^[23] Margaret Reed.

The implication is that these three leases were all near one another. The Duvall and Yerkes leases were explicitly so, on the eastern side of Hopewell Run. The Robertson lease was on the western side, perhaps just across Hopewell Run from the other two, but this is not established. See Figure 9.

The Hite family were early large landholders in the Shenandoah Valley (appendix A). Sarah Hite’s neighbors included two famous (actually infamous) generals, Adam Stephen (appendix B) and Charles Lee (appendix C). Adam Stephen founded Martinsburg, the county seat of Berkeley County. Leetown, supported by the Hite family for county seat, lost out. It lies on Hopewell Run, so the three leases probably lie near Leetown. Sarah Hite was probably the wife of John Hite Jr., son of Jacob Hite, who was son of the founding settler Jost Hite.

In 1782 Blaze “Robinson” was a taxpayer in Berkeley Co., [W.]Va., on 1 poll and 0 slaves.^[24]

Hardy Co., [W.]Va., Deeds, Taxes, and Estate, 1794–1811

On 4 Mar. 1793 Thomas Elswick, of Hardy Co., Va., sold to Blaze “Robinson,” of “Berkley” Co., Va., for £30, a tract of 162 acres by a survey dated 3 Feb. 1779 in Hardy Co., “including the clay lick on the first fork of Kemseys run a branch of the lost river Cacapehon.” The deed was acknowledged 8 Apr. 1793.^[49]

On [empty] Dec. 1793 John Cline and his wife, Ann, of Hardy Co., Va., sold to Blaze “Robinson,” of “Berkley” Co., Va., for [empty], a tract of 250 acres by a survey dated 11 Feb. 1779 in Hampshire, now Hardy, Co., “about a mile from Kemssey land and granted to Christopher Smith assenee [sic, assignee] of Christopher Wise by virtue of a warrant issued from the late Lord proprietors office of the Northern Neck by Beverly Randolph Esq^r Govenor [sic] of the Commonwealth of Virginia” on 19 Oct. 1789. The plat description mentions “Kemsseys run.” The deed was acknowledged 9 Dec. 1793.^[50]

Note in the preceding two deeds that Blaze was still a resident of Berkeley County in 1793, even as late as Dec. 1793. Also recall that his lease from Sarah Hite in Berkeley Co. would terminate 26 Aug. 1794. Unless further evidence contradicts, it’s reasonable to assume that he played out his entire lease with her, and then moved to his newly acquired lands in Hardy Co. in 1794.

The word “Cacapehon” in the first of these two deeds and “Capecapon” in one that follows are explained by this West Virginia Historic Marker:

In 1809 Blaze Robertson was a taxpayer in Hardy Co., [W.]Va., on 1 poll and 4 horses.^[69] There was no tax in 1808. I did not find Blaze in the 1810 tax lists, consistent with his having died early that year.

On 19 Sept. 1810 an inventory was made of the estate of Blaze Robertson in Hardy Co., [W.]Va. It was ordered to be recorded on 11 Dec. 1810. A sale was held and, except for four items, all items were purchased by family members: John, William, Hannah, Rachel, and Rebecca Robertson. This sale result was also recorded 11 Dec. 1810. The estate settled finally with the administrators on 19 Jan. 1811, and the settlement of the estate was declared complete on 12 Feb. 1811.^[70]

On 30 June 1843 George Miller was granted 120 acres in Hardy Co., [W.]Va., by James McDowell, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, a tract designated by Treasury Warrant 2,751, issued from the land office, surveyed 13 June 1842, lying “on the waters of Kemseys run, a drain of Lost River, adjoining his own land.” The plat description mentions “a line of his Jewel tract,” “a line of Chambers Big survey on the top of Mud lick Spur,” and “a line of his Blaze Robertson tract.”^[71]

On 11 Oct. 1813 John Robertson and his wife, Elizabeth, of Hardy Co., [W.]Va., sold to Joseph Wilkin, of the same place, for $300, a tract of 66 acres in Hardy Co. “on Kimseys run a drain of lost river of Capeon.” The plat description mentions Thomas Waters and Thomas Elswick, and that

“It being the same that was patented unto William Kimseys and by his heirs conveyed unto the said John Robertson.” The deed was acknowledged on 12 Oct. 1813.^[72]

There is a mention here and there in the stories and obituaries that the family removed to Jackson Co., Ind., in 1816 (see the obituary fragment in the following section). The 1813 deed suggests that John Robertson, at least, removed earlier.

On 10 Sept. 1818 the heirs of Blaze Robertson, deceased—Hannah Robertson, his widow, and James Webb and “Easther” his wife, Rachel Robertson, William Robertson, Andrew Robertson, John Robertson and Elizabeth his wife, George Robertson and Hannah his wife, and James Hamilton and “Rebeccah” his wife—all either of or formerly of Hardy Co., [W.]Va., sold to George Miller Jr., of Shenandoah Co., Va., for $2,000, four tracts of land in Hardy Co. See the details in appendix D, and see Figure 12 for the actual opening lines from the deed book. The deed was acknowledged 16 Oct. 1818.^[73]

Some words of particular interest in the 1818 deed are these:

. . . acting under the Authority of a legal power of Attorney legally executed and acknowledged from John Robertson and Elizabeth his wife George Robertson and Hannah his wife & James Hamilton & Rebeccah his wife bearing date the seventh day of September one thousand eight hundred and sixteen . . .

This suggests that, as of 7 Sept. 1816, John and Elizabeth Robertson, George and Hannah Robertson, and James and Rebecca Hamilton, were remote from Hardy Co. [W.]Va. This is consistent with their being by that time in Jackson Co., Ind. [N.B., I could answer this definitely by inspecting the deed books of Jackson Co., Ind., but they are off limits unless accessed at an LDS facility. The nearby Oakland Temple is currently closed to the public due to Covid-19 restrictions.]

On [empty] Mar. 1820 a deed on the same matter but more specifically naming the heirs already in Jackson Co., Ind., was signed, thus finally closing the transaction with all the heirs. See also appendix D. The deed was acknowledged in Jackson Co., Ind., on 20 Mar. 1820 and in Hardy Co., [W.]Va., on 10 Oct. 1820.^[74]

In 1816 John and Sarah Wilson Hamilton and Hannah Hutchinson Robertson brought their families from Hardy County, Virginia to this area. James, Elizabeth, Mary, Hannah and Esther Hamilton married Rebecca, John, William, George and Andrew Robertson, respectively. Rachel Robertson married John Chilcott. All are buried here with the exception of James and Rebecca; John and Elizabeth; and William. The south 55 feet is the Hamilton Burial Grounds and north of that is the Andrew Robertson Family Burial Grounds.

I believe that we can conclude from this that “James, Elizabeth, Mary, Hannah and Esther Hamilton” were all children of John¹ Hamilton and his wife Sarah Wilson. That interpretation is consistent with “Rebecca, John, William, George and Andrew Robertson” all being children of Hannah (Hutchinson) Robertson, wife of Blaze¹ Robertson.

See also the obituary of Blaze³ (*John R.*²), which begins thus:

He came to this county in the fall of 1816 with his parents and quite a number of others from that community, seeking a home in the far west. . . They came down the Ohio river in a boat to Cincinnati, where they stopped for a few days and then resumed their western journey in the almost unbroken forest of the north-western territory, (Indiana not having been admitted as a state until December 11th of that year [Wikipedia for Indiana gives 11 Dec. 1816 as the date])^[78]

Second Generation

4. NANCY² ROBERTSON (₃Blaze¹) was born 15 July 1774^[81] or about 1778 (calculated), died 1807, age 29, buried (now) in Mathias Community Cem., Mathias, Hardy Co., [W.]Va.^[82] See Figure 2 and Figure 10.

The birthdate question. Here is a table comparing the birthdates of Blaze's children from the "Blaze Robertson Medical Book" (see appendix F) as compared to what I determined from other sources:

Child	Medical Book	other sources
Nancy	15 July 1774	about 1778
Esther	20 Jan. 1779	about 1777 or about 1779
James	10 Feb. 1781	1781
John	18 Dec. 1782	18 Dec. 1782
William	15 Nov. 1784	[15] Nov. 1784
Rebecca	15 Nov. 1786	about 1785
Rachel	31 Jan. 1789	31 Jan. 1789
George	6 Aug. 1791	6 Aug. 1791
Andrew	[missing]	5 Dec. 1793

Notice that Nancy's Medical Book birthdate is the only one at wide variance with other sources. Why should I question that date for her? There are two reasons. First, I don't know what that "Medical Book" actually is. I don't know its provenance. If it was kept by Blaze himself, then I couldn't question it. But all we know about the Medical Book is a transcription of it made by the DAR chapter of Jackson Co., Ind. I've simply copied that transcription into appendix F of this book. My first question is: who is the Medical Book's author? My second question is: are the original dates easily read?

81. See Blaze Robertson Medical Book in appendix F: "Nancy Robertson, 7/15/1774." But cf. birthdate question explored above.

82. Find a Grave, no. 95550285, gravestone photograph, by P. J. Funkhouser, Mathias Community Cem., Mathias, Hardy Co., W.Va., "In memory of | Nancy Rober[t] | son who depar | tid this life in | the [21] day of | October in the | year of our | Lord 1[80]7 in the | 30 year of her | age." The items in square brackets I could not read with certainty so use contents provided by persons purporting to have transcribed the stones in 1965.

But there is the second reason to question the Medical Book date for Nancy: Nancy's gravestone (Figure 2) just doesn't appear to support the 1774 birth year. It is difficult to read, however, and perhaps I have misread the fourth digit (it appears to be a 7) of her death year. Or perhaps I've misread the year of her life in which she died (it appears to be 30). I am trusting in both cases the reading supplied by others, presumably who have inspected the actual gravestones closely. If she died in her 30th year, she would have been 29. And if the last digit of the year was 7, then the last digit of her birth year would be 8.

So the birthdate question for Nancy is unresolved.

It is said that Nancy (and [her father] Blaze) were both buried on Wilkins Farm, near Lost River, WV. This cemetery now lies beneath the reservoir of the Kimsey's Run Dam. The cemetery stones were moved to the Mathias Mennonite Community Cemetery on West Virginia Route 259 south of Mathias, WV.^[83]

5. ESTHER [EASTHER] [HESTER] [HETTY]² ROBERTSON (₃Blaze¹) was born 20 Jan. 1779^[84] or about 1777 (1850 census) or about 1779 (1860 census),^[85] [West] Virginia, and died after the 1860 census. Granddaughter Mary Virginia⁵ (Webb) Howard stated (see appendix F), "I'd make a guess she died late in 1867 or early 1868."^[86] She married 26 June 1809, Hardy

Co., [W.]Va.,^[87] JAMES² WEBB, who was born about 1787 (1850 census) or about 1784 (1860 census) or 29 May 1784 according to a granddaughter (see appendix F), Pennsylvania, and died before the 31 Mar. 1863 deed between siblings of lands of “their deceased father James Webb deceased” (q.v.). In fact, according to his granddaughter, Mary Virginia⁵ (Webb) Howard, he died 3 July 1862 in Hardy Co.^[88]

A brief biography and genealogy of James appears in appendix F, written by his granddaughter. I give my argument there for why I trust her dates. The same material appears in this convenient summary (which gives credit to the granddaughter, Mrs. Howard, in its final paragraph but does not mention Love (1950)):

James was born 29 May 1784 to John & Catherine aka Rachael, nee Davis in Cumberland, Pennsylvania. He married Hester Robinson 24 [sic] Jun 1809. Seven children were born to this union. Listed in birth order: George, b 3 Mar 1810; John, b 18 Jun 1811; William, b 8 Nov 1812; Catherine, b 19 Sep 1814; Hannah, b 23 Jun 1816; James, b 15 Jan 1818; and Thomas, b 2 Sep 1821. James continued his father’s tan yard business after his death.

James oldest son, George remained in Hardy County until after the Civil War. Family Legend has it that during the War, George was so sure that the Confederacy would win, he converted more than $10,000 to Confederacy Script which he lost. He was so disappointed in the outcome of the war he sold his possessions and moved his family to Cedar County, Missouri about 1870.

George married first, Jane Martha Burch, 4 Feb 1845 (b 19 May 1827, d 4 Jul 1859) seven [sic] children were born to this union. He married

James' daughters, Catherine and Hannah, unmarried, remained at home in Hardy County. James' son James continued the tan yard business in Hardy County after his father's death. James' son Thomas remained in Hardy County. He married Rebecca Ann Thorp/Thorpe [sic], date unknown. No children were born to this union. Thomas died in the Civil War after 1863. As it appears to pertain to this last formal deed, I add this note by granddaughter, Mary Virginia Howard, of John Webb and Margaret:

I found an old unsigned deed among my grandfather’s papers year ago. It is dated October 1868. My grandfather, his wife, and his brother William who lived here, transferred to their brother George still living in Hardy County, all rights and titles to their father’s estate “in consideration of attentions and services required by their declining years whilst said J and W resided in a distant state and were precluded from rendering such attentions and services to their aged parents.”^[94]

In 1820 John Robertson, 26–45 [born 1775–1794], resided in Jackson Co., Ind. The two columns representing women 26 and older are missing or are ambiguously located, so will be ignored here. With John were a boy under 10 [born 1810–1820], and three girls under 10.^[102] Blaze³ and Esther³ fit here, but William³ and George³ do not. This suggests that there were two daughters under 10 not accounted for in this sketch, perhaps Anna³ and Sally³.

A 1901 newspaper obituary for their eldest son, Blaze, gives the family structure and tells of the family’s coming to Indiana:

Uncle Blaze Robertson, whose sickness has been mentioned in this paper from time to time, was born in Hardy county, Virginia, August 8, 1814, and died at his home at Honeytown, March 14, 1901, of paralysis. The funeral services were held Saturday, March 16, 1901, conducted by Elders Shutts and Jones, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Robertson cemetery, followed by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. He became a member of the Christian church in 1858, and has been an elder in that body for a number of years. . . .

He came to this county in the fall of 1816 with his parents and quite a number of others from that community, seeking a home in the far west. He was the eldest son of John and Betsy Robertson and was the last survivor of four children (Esther, wife of John R. Hamilton, who died in 1887; Wm. M., who died in 1888 and Geo. L. who died in 1869.)

They came down the Ohio river in a boat to Cincinnati, where they stopped for a few days and then resumed their western journey in the almost unbroken forest of the north-western territory, (Indiana not having been admitted as a state until December 11th of that year) chopping their way through the almost impenetrable forest until they came to the south bank of White River, near the present site [sic] of the iron bridge near Mooneytown. The stream being swollen they went into camp there. Then, as now, movers created considerable curiosity and the people of the settlement near Brownstown came to see them and invited them (men, women, and children) to a barn-raising at "old Billy Mitchell's" on the farm now owned by John B. Burrell. They being expert axmen, they so impressed the settlers that they took them across the river in boats to show them the fine land in this vicinity. They were so well pleased that they entered land and settled near this place. Of the men that came were John, George and Wm. Robertson and Jas. Hamilton.

The deceased's father having died in the early 20's, he was left to hew out a home in his adopted country. On November 26, 1825 [sic, surely should be 1835], at the age of 21, he was united in marriage to Mary Robertson to whom were born ten children, six of whom are still living and were present in his last hours, viz: Abigail McPherson, Esther Manion, Clara M. Boswell, Jas. D., Andrew and Lycurgus S. Robertson. . . . He served two terms as commissioner of this county . . .

"Uncle Blaze" was a son of one of the four Robertson boys who married four Hamilton girls, from whom sprung a great number of the Robertsons and Hamiltons of this county. . . .^[105]

9. REBECCA [REBECCA^H] ROBERTSON (₃*Blaze*¹) was born 15 Nov. 1786^[116] or about 1785, Berkeley Co., [W.]Va., and died 1859, Jackson Co., Ind. She married 1811, Berkeley Co., [W.]Va. (see bio of William³ Hamilton, next), after the 1810 inventory sale for Blaze Robertson's estate and before the 1818 heirs deed, JAMES² HAMILTON (John¹ Hamilton), who was born 17 June 1783, on the voyage of his family from Ireland to America (bio), and died 24 Sept. 1856 (bio).

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind., gives the early structure of the John¹ Hamilton family:

William H. Hamilton (deceased), of Brownstown Township, was born in Hardy County, Va., August 19, 1813. He is a grandson of John Hamilton, who was a native of Ireland, born in the year of 1745. He was married to Sarah Wilson, and they immigrated to this country in 1783 and settled in Virginia. During their voyage to America, James Hamilton, the father of our subject, was born, June 17, 1783. On their arrival they settled in Berkeley County, Va., where in 1811 James Hamilton was married to Rebecca Robertson. In the year 1816 the entire family came to Jackson County, Ind., and settled in Hamilton Township, the township receiving its name from this family. Here the grandfather died in 1837, his wife having died in 1820. James, the father of our subject, was a farmer by occupation and a very prominent man. He was elected as magistrate in 1817, afterward county commissioner, and in 1830 represented Jackson County in the State Legislature. He died September 24, 1856. William H. had been a resident of Jackson County since 1816. For a number of years he was engaged in the mercantile business, but the latter part of his life was spent in farming. He married Bridget Conley, a native of Ireland, who survives him and now resides on the homestead with her four children: John H. born August 23, 1859; Annie A., February 14, 1861; Esther J., July 31, 1865, and Rebecca C., August 31, 1867. His death occurred February 3, 1869.^[117]

In 1850 James Hamilton, 67, a farmer born in Ireland, with $3,000 real estate, resided in Brownstown Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with Rebecca,

10. RACHEL² ROBERTSON (₃*Blaze*¹) was born 31 Jan. 1789^[119] or 31 Jan. 1789 (calculated), died 1 Feb. 1835, aged 46 years 1 day, and was buried in Robertson Cem., Seymour, Jackson Co., Ind.^[120] She married 29 July 1819, Jackson Co., Ind.,^[121] JOHN CHILCOTT, who was born 1780–1790, died 19 Mar. 1848, Brownstown, Jackson Co., Ind., intestate, and was buried with his (first) wife. On 4 Apr. 1848, Andrew Robertson was appointed in Jackson Co. administrator of the estate of “John Chilcott late of Jackson County deceased who died intestate.”^[122]

On 8 Aug. 1839, John Chilcott married, second, Brownstown, Jackson Co., Ind., Rachel Smith.^[123]

On 29 July 1814, John Chilcott enlisted as a private in Capt. Van Meter’s Co., Virginia Militia, War of 1812, and was discharged 7 Dec. 1814. His widow, Rachel Chilcott applied for a pension based on this service and it was granted in the form of bounty lands. According to the pension record, Rachel resided in 1850 and 1855 in Jackson Co., Ind., then in 1878 and 1879 in Maryville, Nodaway Co., Mo. It notes that “Soldier’s 1st mar. Rachel Robinson Died 1832 [sic], that the soldier married the widow 8 Aug. 1839, Brownstown, Jackson Co., that he died 19 Mar. 1849 [sic], Brownstown, and she on 29 Dec. 1880.”^[124]

In 1850 Andrew Robertson, 57, a farmer born in Virginia, with $3,000 real estate, resided in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with Esther, 52, born in Virginia, James H., 24, a farmer, William, 22, a farmer, “Hanah,” 17, George A., 11, and Lydia Chilcott, 24, all born in Virginia. Next door were Hannah Robertson, 54, born in Virginia, and also “Absolem” Robertson, 27, born in Indiana, and James Robertson, 30, born in Virginia.^[143]

In 1870 Andrew Robertson, 77, a farmer born in Virginia, with $12,000 real and $3,200 personal estates, resided in Courtland, Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with Joel Nelson, 28, a farmer born in Kentucky, with $200 personal estate, and Sarah Nelson, 41, born in Indiana, with $2,300 real and $200 personal estates, and James W. Wayman, 21, farm worker, and Charles “M.” Wayman, 20, farm worker, both born in Indiana and each with $2,300 real and $200 personal estates, and with William Laraway, 8, William Mahurin, 28, and Hannah “Silcott,” 43, all three born in Indiana. Nearby were John Robertson, 27, Harriet Robertson, 32, and William Robertson, 43.^[144] Sarah was Andrew’s daughter, Sarah³ Robertson (*Andrew*², *Blaze*¹). Joel was her second husband, and the Wayman boys were her sons by her first husband (q.v.). Hannah “Silcott” was Andrew’s niece (q.v.), Hannah³ Chilcott (*Rachel*², *Blaze*¹).

An obituary for Andrew:

Another one of the first settlers of this county has answered the summons of the messenger. Andrew Robertson, Esq., of Hamilton township, died on Monday last, September 18th, 1876, at the ripe old age of 82 years, 10 months and 18 days. Mr. Robertson was a native of Virginia. He came to Indiana when yet a mere boy, and settled in this county, where he remained up to the period of his death. He was one of the jury of twelve men who tried the first cause in the first court held after the organization of the county, and was the last survivor of the number. From 1845 to 1847, he held the position of Associate Judge, in which position he evinced such a thorough knowledge of law and displayed such sound judgement that he won for himself an enviable reputation. We believe this is the only official station he ever occupied.

Judge Robertson was distinguished for all the attributes that characterize a truly good, enlightened and noble man. In his convictions of right, he was firm and immovable as a rock. With him, conscientious belief of right constituted right, and in the opinion once formed, or the principle once implanted, or the position once taken, no power under high heaven could make him move an iota. He was fond of friendly argument, and would yield an attentive ear to reason; but however cogent the logic of his adversary, Judge Robertson would remain of the same opinion still. If there lived a strictly honest and conscientious man, Judge Robertson could rightfully claim that proud distinction. In affability, magnanimity, benevolence and hospitality, he excelled, as is evidenced by the innumerable acts of kindness and friendship which he rendered during his long and useful life-time. Throughout his life, he was a Democrat of the old Jeffersonian school. He was in truth an able, faithful and consistent representative of the olden time Democracy, and of the principles which constituted orthodox creed in those days.

We are not in possession of the requisite facts and data to give an extended review of Judge Robertson's life; but hope ere many weeks to lay before our readers a full sketch of his life, together with such reminiscences connected with it as will prove interesting and useful to our readers.

The remains of the deceased were consigned to their resting place in the family burying ground, on the home farm, on Tuesday afternoon, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives, neighbors and friends. The aged wife and four sons and one daughter survive him.^[145]

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

Blaze Robertson is a prominent farmer of Hamilton Township and a native of Virginia. His birth occurred August 8, 1814. Two years later (1816) he came to Indiana, and settled in Jackson County, and, with his parents, located near where he now lives. His early education was very limited, and what little he did get was, as he says, “acquired between the plow handles,” except a few terms that he attended at the old log house in the Robertson settlement. Early in life he chose farming for his occupation, and for more than fifty years has been upon the farm where he now resides. Mr. Robertson underwent all the hardships of pioneer life, and now in his old age has the satisfaction of enjoying the result of a life of hardship and toil. November 26, 1835, he was joined in wedlock to Mary Robertson, of Ohio, and to this union ten children have been born. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson celebrated their golden wedding November 26, 1885, and thus they have been permitted to enjoy half a century of wedded happiness. Mr. Robertson has always been a Democrat, and has taken an active interest in the public affairs of his county. He held the office of county commissioner for seven years, and has also served in the capacity of justice of the peace of Hamilton Township.^[205]

An obituary for Mary Robertson:

It becomes our painful duty to chronicle the death of Aunt Mary Robertson, wife of Ex-Commissioner Blaze Robertson, whose sickness has been mentioned heretofore, and who breathed her last at her home at this place April 15, 1887, at 25 minutes past four o'clock P.M. She was a daughter of George and Hannah Robertson, deceased. She was born in this township November 21st, 1816. She was at the time of her death 70 years, 5

A matter of family legend—birth in Maysville, Ky. The family story is that Blaze was born on the rafting trip down the Ohio river as the family moved from [West] Virginia to Indiana, stopping in Maysville, Ky., for the birth. This is a nifty story, but not a single contemporaneous record supports it. As detailed below, five successive censuses give Blaze’s birthplace as Virginia. A 1901 obituary for him (see his parents’ sketch) states he was “born in Hardy county, Virginia.” The 1886 biography of Blaze just preceding states that he was a “native of Virginia.” I have to conclude that the birth in Maysville is not supported. I also think it unlikely that a woman just about to give birth would be put on a raft for such an arduous journey, nor that the timing for her would be so lucky that they would have arrived in Maysville, one of the few established stopping points, just as the birth occurred. But those suppositions could be readily disproved with a single record.

23. ESTHER³ ROBERTSON (⁷John R.², Blaze¹) was born 1 Nov. 1818 (Bible and gravestone),^[222] Indiana, died 31 Mar. 1887, and was buried in Fairview Cem., Brownstown, Jackson Co., Ind.^[223] She was licensed to marry 16 Nov. 1835, Jackson Co., Ind.,^[224] and married 19 Nov. 1835 (Bible)^[225] JOHN R. (see also his bio, next), died 8 Oct., 1894, and was buried with his wife.^[227]

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind., also gives the early structure of the John¹ Hamilton family:

Hon. John R. Hamilton, Brownstown, Ind. The paternal grandfather of our subject, John Hamilton, was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, in about 1745. He married Sarah Wilson in his native country, and in 1783 he

222. John R. Hamilton Bible, 1850, appears in Figures 17 and 18, scanned from Dinn (1976), 3:72-73 (see Preface). Presumably this was the Bible record transcribed by the DAR (with errors as noted), as in appendix F. I will quote the actual Bible records here, “[Births] Esther Hamilton was born November 1st 1818” and “[Births] Esther Robertson was born Nov 1st 1818.”s But cf. the William M. Robertson Bible, 1858, in appendix F, “[Births:] Esther Robertson, 11/7/1818.” I thought at first that this was a DAR transcription of the William M. Robertson Bible, 1858, in Figures 19-22, but there are sufficiently many errors and omissions and additions to bring that identification into question. For example, there is no birth record in the actual pages shown here of the William M. Robertson Bible for Esther Hamilton.

immigrated to America. During the voyage, on June 17, 1783, was born to them James Hamilton, the father of our subject. They settled in Hardy County, Va., where James was raised on a farm, and in 1811, he married Rebecca Robertson, who was born November 15, 1786. John R. was born to them March 21, 1812. In 1816 the Hamilton family came to Indiana and settled in Jackson County, where they were prominently identified with the early history of the county. They settled in what is now Hamilton Township, in whose honor it was named. Here the grandfather died in 1837, his wife having preceded him in 1820. James Hamilton was appointed first magistrate in Hamilton Township; he served several terms as county commissioner, and in 1830 was elected to the State Legislature and was twice re-elected. He died in 1856, his widow surviving until 1859. John R. was reared on his father's farm and was educated at the common schools. He was elected magistrate in 1840, served as county commissioner a number of terms and, in 1849, under the old constitution, he was elected to the State Legislature, was re-elected and served under the new constitution. November 19, 1835, he married Esther Robertson, a daughter of John and Elizabeth (Hamilton) Robertson; she was born in Jackson County November 1, 1818, and to this union the following children were born: James H., William H. (deceased), Rebecca, Dalla W. (deceased), Mary E., Sarah C., Belledonia [sic] C. (deceased), George R. and Andrew J. Mr. H. was also admitted to the bar in 1853, but soon relinquished this and has ever since been actively engaged in farming. The farm upon which he now lives is well improved, and is supplied with whatever is necessary to contribute to his comfort, and now in his declining years he can look back upon a life of usefulness.^[228]

Hamilton, 38, a farmer born in Virginia, with $500 real estate, resided in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with Esther, 32, born in Indiana, and with James H., 12, William H., 10, "Rebeca," 7, Mary E., 4, and Sarah C., 1, all born in Indiana, and Thomas Carter, 15, born in Indiana. Shirly, 23, born in Indiana, Hamilton, 2, and Esther, 6/12, both born in Canada.^[231] I shall assume that the Dec. birth month entry should have been entered next to Esther, not Hamilton. The presence of Mary E., 23, in this household suggests that she was J. R.'s daughter.

In 1880 J. R. Hamilton, 68, a farmer born in Virginia of a father born in Ireland and a mother in Virginia, resided in Brownstown Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with his wife, Esther, 60, born in Indiana of Virginia natives. Next door resided Mary E. Shirley, 33 (q.v.).^[232]

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

William M. Robertson, of Hamilton Township, is a native of that division of the county. His father, John Robertson, was a native of Virginia, and his mother, nee Elizabeth Hamilton, of Ireland [sic]. He received his early education in the characteristic log schoolhouse of pioneer days. Has been engaged in agricultural pursuits all his life, and all except two years in Brownstown Township. September 7, 1848, Mr. Robertson was married to Miss Elizabeth M. Sewell, a native of Jackson County, and by that matrimonial union there were twelve children, of whom the following are now living: Mary A., who married E. L. Holmes and resides at Newbern, Va.; James [sic, "Virginia M." is scribbled interline here] Wayman, residing in Ewing; Martha A. married William M. Isaacs, of Hamilton Township; David B. resides in Seymour; Saul [sic] W. at Ewing; Blaze is next in order of birth; George is mining in Colorado; Ida married William Laraway, of Hamilton Township; and Celestus H. is the youngest living. The mother of these children died in January, 1869, and their father, December 8 [sic], 1874, was united in marriage with Margaret L. Jacobs, and by the latter union two children have been born, and named James W. and D. T.^[263]

An obituary for Harriett:

Mrs. Harriett Critchfield Beavers, formerly of Jackson county, died at the home of her son, John A. Robertson, in Joy, Nebraska, March 3, 1928, aged 89 years, 9 months and 28 days. She was born in the state of Ohio, May 5, 1838. The following obituary was sent us for publication:

Her parents moved from Ohio to Jackson county, Indiana, while she was still a small child and on May 3, 1866, she was married to George L. Robertson at Brownstown, Indiana. To this union were born three children, all living, as follows: John A. Robertson, of Joy, Nebraska; Mrs. O. E. Ott, of Nashville, Tennessee; and Mrs. H. J. Worth, of Bancroft, Nebraska; also thirty grandchildren and forty-six great-grandchildren.

On August 4, 1869, her husband died, and in May, 1872 [sic], at Free-town, Indiana she was married to Jesse L. Dowden from whom she was divorced on September 22, 1882.

On January 11, 1885 [sic], she was married to Samuel Beavers at Spraytown, Indiana, and the same year they came to Holt county, Nebraska, and settled on a homestead 16 miles northeast of O'Neill, where they lived until the death of Mr. Beavers on June 6, 1916, since which time she has made her home with her children but most of the time with her son, John A. Robertson, where she was at the time of her death.

"Grandma Beavers", as she was called by all the early settlers of this county, was always ready and willing to help in cases of sickness and trouble and everybody remembers her for her help and kindness in the pioneer days of this community. In early life she joined the Methodist church and was a faithful member until her death.

Funeral services were conducted by the Methodist minister, Rev. Ballard of O'Neill, from the residence of her son, and burial was in the cemetery at Joy. All her children were present at the funeral and six grandsons were her pallbearers.^[301]

An obituary for Cyrus (in its entirety since I like it!):

The death of Cyrus D. Crabb, which occurred May 5, 1908, closed the earthly career of one of the most prominent citizens of Jackson County, and has left a vacancy in the business and social affairs of the community sadly impressive.

He was a native of our county being born in Hamilton Township January 14, 1827, and died in his eighty-second year. He was twice married and is survived by three children—James R. Crabb of his first wife, and Ira Crabb and Mrs. Fred Miller of his second. Mr. Crabb began life in the sparsely settled wilderness of this county and like his cotemporaries, experienced all the hardships of a pioneer life. As the forest fell beneath the strokes of his ax he grew into manhood, and he has witnessed every step of progress that has reached the wonderful development of the present age.

Work! work! work! was his daily lot, and no young man more cheerfully and incessantly met and performed the duties of each succeeding day. While devoted to his work on the farm, he still had a desire to see other parts of his country; and therefore in his early manhood made two trips on a flat boat to New Orleans, and afterwards a trip and a short sojourn in Texas.

He began business life with no other means than a healthy body and willing mind but he wasted neither his time of his earnings, and his small accumulations were carefully saved and wisely invested. At the death of his father he came into possession of a small patrimony, which added to his own savings gave him a chance to exercise his prudent judgement in grasping the opportunities around him. Without excitement or hurry he moved on with vigilant eye and sure step until he reached a prominence in substantial wealth equaled but by a few of our citizens. Born and reared upon the farm, he never attempted, or had any desire, to change his vocation. Viewing his growing crops and grazing herds filled his heart with serenity that can be experienced by those, only, who delight in rural occupation. His home was substantial, and in it the atmosphere of true hospitality was felt by all who crossed its threshold.

His prominent characteristics were sterling honesty, absolute truthfulness, untiring industry, liberal economy and unwavering fidelity, and these virtues were accompanied by a broad mind and jovial heart. His charity seldom permitted his tongue to criticize the faults of his neighbors or friends. His life was a model of sensible simplicity. His education was limited to but a few rudiments of book learning; but possessed, as he was, of a remarkable retentive memory, on it all information was permanently impressed. No local event from his childhood to old age that he could not relate as from the page of a book. Being of a sociable disposition he enjoyed the company of his neighbors, and in his later years, when he had dismissed much of his business activity, he spent many hours in social conversation and jovial amusement with his old congenial companions. And at such times he seemed to forget all subjects not connected with the pleasure of the occasion.

Much of the unwritten history of Jackson County, and especially of the neighborhood of Seymour, is forever lost in the death of Mr. Crabb. For his life beginning with the influx of the pioneers, with them, in his youth he entered into the development of the county. Their traditions were stored in his mind; the story of their deprivations and rugged life came to him fresh from their lips, and he was a witness to much of their history that fell within his own times. To his old friends, these events, as he related them, were often of grave and as often of amusing interest. But while he delighted in the reminiscences of the past, he was alert with the spirit of progress.

He was never a member of any church or secret society, yet there were few who practiced the cardinal principles of Christianity, or were more sympathetic with their fellow men than he. His spoken word was par with his written obligation, and he was never known to join any conspiracy to defraud his fellows, or to obtain wealth by questionable means. As a neighbor he was esteemed as one of the best, and as an adviser in difficulties or misunderstandings his counsel was often sought and his decision always fair.

He was a model citizen and was in every way worthy of the friendship of all who knew him. His death is regretted by the entire community in which his long life was spent.^[343]

In 1850 William H. A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

M. C. Hamilton, of Hamilton Township, is a native of the same township, being born within its boundaries, July 6, 1819, third son of James and Rebecca (Robertson) Hamilton, both parents natives of Virginia. The senior Hamilton moved into this county as early as 1815, and settled the next year in the township which was named after him, on the land now owned by his son, our subject. Not until the age of fifteen did Mr. Hamilton have the advantage of any schooling, his first teacher being Samuel Tanner, a

He has been township trustee two years, 1878–79. In politics he is a Democrat, and both himself and Mrs. Hamilton are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. June 4 [sic], 1845, occurred the first marriage of Mr. Hamilton, when Miss Lucinda Mitchell, a native of this county, became his wife. Their union was blessed with two children, of whom one, James W., is living and engaged in farming in the same township. Mrs. Hamilton departed this life September 28, 1848, and Mr. Hamilton was again married in 1850 [sic], to Mary McIntyre [sic], a native of Shelby County. Of their eight children six are living: Amy, Leroy, Wirt, Stites, Maud and Elnora. For a second time was Mr. Hamilton bereaved of his companion, May 22, 1871; and April 17, 1873, he was united in marriage with Mrs. [sic] Eliza M. Poland, a native of Ohio. By this matrimonial union there is one child, Mintie by name.^[366]

An obituary for Mary

Mrs. Mary Holmes, nee Hamilton, was born January 15th, 1823, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Arnold, in Benton township, Lucas county, Iowa, April 24th, 1908, aged 85 years, 3 months and 9 days. She was one of a family of eight children, all of whom are deceased.

On Dec. 2nd, 1841, she was married to Daniel Holmes in Jackson county, Indiana. To this union were born eight children, three sons and five daughters: Oscar F., deceased; Delilah H. Honeywood [sic], deceased; Leonidas H.; William H.; Evadna L. Pierce; Sarah A. Parsons; Doneta A. Arnold; and Ida N. McKinley. All but two who survive her are here to mourn their loss.

In 1851 she and her husband moved to Illinois and settled in Warren Co., and about the middle of September, 1854 removed to Iowa. She has seventeen grandchildren and nineteen great-grandchildren.

In her childhood she was baptized in the Presbyterian church. She was a loving and cheerful mother, a kind and helpful wife, a good neighbor and a consistent helper in the time of need.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Stover and interment was made in the Waynick cemetery.^[390]

An obituary for Olli:

Olli was born in Salem, Indiana on Dec 16, 1823. His father, Joel Wilson was born in North Carolina in 1802, and his grandfather, John Wilson, a Baptist Minister was a native of South Carolina. His great-grandfather, John Wilson came to America just before the Revolution and was killed in the army.

Olli married Elizabeth Hamilton, a native of Indiana and a daughter of James and Rebecca Hamilton, the former a native of Ireland and the latter of Virginia.

Mr and Mrs Wilson became the parents of 5 daughters and 2 sons. Robert F Wilson was accidentally killed by firing an anvil at a political celebration. Dora Bell is also deceased, surviving in 1891 are Willard P, Theresa Isadore Wedwell [sic], Rebecca Fidelia [sic], Annie [sic] Arnold, and Sarah J Giddings.

Mrs Wilson died in 1870.

Olli was a soldier in the Mexican war under General Taylor. At the battle of Buena Vista, he was shot, but the ball struck a copy of the New Testament in his breast pocket saving his life.

Mr Wilson farmed in Tulare County and gave 2 of his daughters 100 acres each to farm as their own.^[402]

See the Thomas Robertson Bible for details of these children. We are particularly interested in Goldie, who married William T. Scoopmire. The Find a Grave page for Abbott Clifford Robertson calls what I've termed here the Thomas Robertson Bible, the "Goldie Marshall Scoopmire Bible." This surely means Goldie (Wilson) Scoopmire's Bible. The same page refers to the bible as "his half-sister's family Bible." Abbott was Goldie's half-brother. I could more accurately have referred to the Bible as Nancy C. Murphy's Bible since it covers her two families.

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

William Robertson is a native of Hamilton Township, Jackson County, and was born August 3, 1827, being the fifth son of Andrew and Easter (Hamilton) Robertson. His early education was limited. George H. Murphy was one of his first teachers. He afterward attended school at Brownstown, obtaining some knowledge of algebra and a few other high branches. After spending some time again upon the farm, he engaged in 1851-52 as clerk for Charles Wayman, in a dry-goods store at Brownstown; and on leaving there he started up for himself for about eighteen months. On leaving mercantile business, in 1862, he was appointed school examiner, in which capacity he served one term, and since then he has occupied his farm. Under the administration of President Buchanan he served as postmaster. The postoffice, named Valley Farm, which was then the address of C. L.

An obituary for Charles:

Charles L. Wayman, a former prominent business man of Brownstown, died Thursday, February 23, 1928, at the home of his son in Hoquaim, state of Washington, aged 77 years.

Mr. Wayman was a son of George and Sarah Wayman and was born on a farm near Brownstown, June 5, 1851.

He will be well remembered by many of the older citizens of Brownstown and readers of The Banner elsewhere. For many years he owned and operated the spoke factory here and was one of Brownstown's most prominent citizens. The family moved from Brownstown to Worthington, where he engaged in the same business, about forty years ago. In 1900 he moved to Little Rock, Arkansas, where he was engaged in the real estate and insurance business until about five years ago when failing health compelled him to seek the coast.

He is survived by his wife, who is a sister of the late James F. Keach; three sons, Guy Wayman, of Hoquiam; Dr. Armer and Claire Wayman, both of Little Rock, Ark.; and one brother, James W. Wayman, of Brownstown.^[550]

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

George A. Robertson was born in this county March 8, 1839, being the youngest son of Andrew and Esther (Hamilton) Robertson. He father immigrated to this county about 1818, and his mother in 1819, both from Virginia. George's early education was obtained from curriculum characteristic of the primitive log schoolhouse. The one he attended had a log taken out of the wall to constitute the window; the seats were made of puncheons, and when the sun shone the scholars had to sit outside 'to keep from freezing. In the winters of 1857 and 1858 he attended the White River Academy, a graded school at Brownstown, where he obtained some knowledge of the higher branches, such as algebra, geometry, surveying, etc. On leaving school he returned to the farm of his father, where he continued until he became of age. Then, in 1860, he was for a while deputy clerk under Dan H. Long. In 1862 he was elected county surveyor, and was the incumbent of that office until 1869. He has also served several terms as township trustee, assessor, etc. In the spring of 1882 he was nominated by his party—the Democratic—for representative to the State Legislature, without opposition. He was elected, and two years afterward renominated and again elected, thus faithfully serving his constituents for two terms. His political views are clearly defined and positive. He is a member of the A. F. & A. M. August 16, 1860, Mr. Robertson married Miss Elizabeth Jones, a native of Washington County, this State, and their two children are Mary B. and Esther L. Their mother died December 5 [sic], 1865, and May 27, 1868, Mr. Robinson married Mary M. Van Cleave, a native of this State, and by this union five children were born, three of whom are living—Maud, Willetta and Andrew V. For a second time was Mr. Robertson bereaved of his companion, May 4, 1881.^[565]

In 1880 Joseph McPherson, 49, a “trustee” born in Iowa of a father born in Scotland and a mother in Maryland, resided in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with his wife, Abigail, 38, born in Indiana of a father born in Virginia and a mother in Ohio, and with his son, Alonzo L., 14, his stepson, Robert L., Robertson, 14, and his daughters, Daisy McPherson, 4, and Ivy May, 1, all four born in Indiana of Indiana natives. Absalom Robertson, 57, resided next door.^[586] Alonzo was from Joseph’s previous marriage.

Abigail Day Robertson was born at this place March 13, 1842, and died of dropsy April 28, 1916, making her age 74 years, 1 month and 15 days. She was the daughter of Blaze and Mary Robertson, both deceased. She was married to Joseph McPherson April 28, 1875, who preceded her to the grave in 1884. She united with the church at Cortland, then later became a charter member of the Christian church at this place and remained a faithful member until death. Deceased spent most of her life here but has lived in four other states viz: Missouri, Washington, Montana and Texas. The last few years she has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Clara Boswell. She leaves to mourn their loss one son, Lee, of Texas; three daughters, Mrs. Daisy Ahl, Mrs. Clara Critchfield and Mrs. Ivy Woodward, all of Cavern, Mont.; three stepchildren, Lon McPherson, of Newkirk, Mrs. Anna Borcharding, of Montana, Mrs. Ella Kyte, of Seymour; three brothers, James and Andrew, of this place; Lycurgus, of Brownstown; two sisters, Mrs. Easter Manion and Mrs. Clara Boswell, and a host of friends and relatives. The funeral was preached at the Honeytown Christian church by Rev. C. V. Weddell, of Medora, Saturday afternoon followed by interment in the Cortland cemetery. The relatives have the sympathy of the entire community.^[587]

In 1900 “Abigal” McPherson, 58, a widow born in Indiana of Indiana natives, resided in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., in the household of her [step]daughter, Anna Borcharding, and husband and four children. With Abigal are her daughters, “Iva,” 21, born Dec. 1878, and Clara, 18, born May 1882, both born in Indiana of a father born in Indiana. Abigal is recorded as having had one child, but this does not make sense given that two daughters are listed. Next door resided William Robertson, 72, and beyond his family that of Joel Nelson, 57.^[588]

In 1910 “Abigal” McPherson, 58, a widow born in Indiana of a father born in Virginia and a mother in Ohio, resided with her brother, Andrew

Robertson, in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind. (q.v.). She had had five children, with four surviving.^[589]

As regards the next child entry, we note that Abigail's obituary mentions her son Lee, that the 1880 census for her husband lists his "stepson" Robert L. Robertson, and that Lee Robertson witnessed Ivy McPherson's marriage. Ivy would have been his half-sister by the argument here. A Social Security application gives the parents of Robert Lee Robertson as James Robertson and Abigail Day. His death certificate gives them as James Robertson and "Abigail" Robertson.

Child, presumably out of wedlock, with a JAMES ROBERTSON^[590]:

Known children of four of the marriage to Joseph McPherson:

- 261 ii DAISY G.⁵ MCPHERSON, born 24 Feb. 1876 (death certificate), Brownstown, Jackson Co., Ind., died 7 May 1947, Cardwell Basin, Jefferson Co., Mont.,^[591] buried 12 May 1947 in Whitehall Cem., Whitehall, Jefferson Co., Mont.,^[592] married 23 Feb. 1900 (obit.)

590. Her brother James is not excluded but unlikely. They both resided in their father's household in the 1870 census, which makes no mention of a child. But Lee's death certificate gives James Robertson's birthplace as Arkansas, and the 1930 census supports it.

From a 50th wedding anniversary announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Manion, of Brownstown township, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home on their farm about three miles east of Brownstown on the Brownstown and Seymour road Sunday. More than sixty guests gathered at their home for the all-day event.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Manion, there were two other couples present whose wedding anniversaries came on the same day. For one of these couples, James W. and Virginia Robertson Wayman, of Brownstown, it was also their golden wedding anniversary, having been married on the same day and year as Mr. and Mrs. Manion, Feb. 20, 1872. . . .

Mr. Manion was born at Mulfordsville, Kentucky, August 20, 1850. At the age of twelve years in 1862, he moved with his parents, Ambrose D. and Elizabeth Manion to Jackswon county where they settled on the homestead where Mr. Manion has lived ever since.

Esther E. Robertson was born in Hamilton township, Jackson county, in 1851. She is the daughter of Blaze and Mary Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. Manion have eight children, Ada, at home; Harry, of Brownstown township; Ethel Altemeyer, of Hamilton, Mrs. Della Persinger, of Seymour; Dempsy, of Edinburg; Frank, of Indianapolis; Mary E. of Atlanta, Ga.; and Ray, of Stanton, Iowa; and twenty-five grandchildren. All the children were present except Ray. . . .^[623]

Funeral services were held at the Honeytown Christian church in Jackson county for Mrs. Esther E. Manion, 80, mother of Dempsey O. [sic] Manion, former trustee of Nineveh township, and burial was made in the Robertson cemetery near the church.

Mrs. Manion was one of the best known residents of Jackson county. She was the mother of Miss Ada Manion, Latin teacher in the Brownstown high school.

She had been a member of the Honeytown Christian church since a small child, and had lived on the farm, between Seymour and Brownstown, where death claimed here [sic] since she and John Manion, her deceased husband, who died seven years ago, were united in marriage 59 years ago.

Students of the Brownstown high school attended the funeral, following dismissal of classes in honor of the mother of one of their teachers.

In addition to the son and daughter, Mrs. Manion is survived by six children, Harry, near Brownstown; Ray and Frank, of Indianapolis; Mary, of Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Henry Altemeyer, of Honeytown, and Mrs. John Persinger, of Reddington.^[624] in the county, and are elsewhere mentioned in this volume. Andrew was their third son, and was born August 28, 1858. His education was acquired in the common schools of Jackson County, and is as good as they usually afford. His marriage with Miss Amanda Sanders was celebrated August 28, 1880. She is a native of Salt Creek Township, Jackson County, where a large part of her life has been spent. They are the parents of three children, all sons. Mr. Robertson has always devoted his attention to farming, and his efforts have been more than usually successful. He is now one of the promising young farmers of the township. Politically he is a Democrat, as were his ancestors.^[649]

In 1900 Andrew Robertson, 42, a farmer born Aug. 1857 in Indiana of a father born in Virginia and a mother in Ohio, resided in Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with his wife of 19 years, Amanda, 38, born June 1861 in Indiana of a father born in Kentucky and a mother in Virginia, and with his sons, "Clide," 17, born Oct. 1882, and Hershel, 15, born May 1885, and his daughters, Chloe, 13, born Apr. 1887, and Viola, 10, born July 1889, sons, Samuel, 8, born Aug. 1891, Harley, 6, born Nov. 1893, William B., 4, born Feb. 1896, and Blaze, 2, born Mar. 1898, and infant daughter, 2/12, born Mar. 1900, all born in Indiana. In 1870 J. W. “Shirly,” 27, a physician born in Kentucky, with $1,000 personal estate, resided in Brownstown, Brownstown Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., in the household of J. R. “Hamelton,” 58 (q.v.), with Mary E., 23, born in Indiana, Hamilton, 2, and Esther, 6/12, both born in Canada.^[667]

In 1880 Mary E. Shirley, 33, a widow born in Indiana of a father born in Virginia and a mother in Indiana, resided in Brownstown Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with ~~Hamilton~~ [it could be a surname Hamilton that is crossed out] “Winston,” 13, and Esther E., 11, both born in Indiana of a father born in Kentucky. Confusingly, next door to them is a continuation of Mary E. Shirley’s family, with her daughters ~~Hamilton~~ [apparently, the surname Hamilton is crossed out], Esther, 12, and Josephine, 6, both born in Indiana of a father born in Indiana. Both appear to have surname Shirley. Next door resided J. R. Hamilton, 68 (q.v.).^[668] The two daughters named Esther are puzzling, especially since their ages are slightly different and their fathers’ nativities are too. I don’t know how to explain the second set of daughters, so will, at least for now, simply omit them as part of this family. They are not supported by the next census item.

In 1900 Mary E. Shirley, 53, widow, a farmer born Jan. 1847 in Indiana of Virginia natives, resided in Brownstown Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., with her daughter, Esther, 31, single, a teacher born Dec. 1869 in Indiana of a father born in Kentucky. Mary had had two children, both surviving. Mary had been married 34 years, which would have been about right had her husband been alive.^[669]

103. MARTHA ADALINE⁴ ROBERTSON (₂₄*William M.³, John R.², Blaze¹*) was born 13 Aug. 1853,^[682] Indiana. She married 7 Sept. 1873, Jackson Co., Ind.,^[683] WILLIAM M. ISAACS, who was born 2 Mar. 1847 (from his bio, next), Hamilton Twp., Jackson Co., Ind., son of William H. and Highley (Reynolds) Isaacs (bio.).

A biography from an 1886 history of Jackson Co., Ind.:

William M. Isaacs, a farmer of Hamilton Township, is a native of the same township in which he is still a resident, where he was born March 2, 1847; the fourth son of William H. and Highley (Reynolds) Isaacs, the former a native of Kentucky and the latter of Tennessee. They settled in this county in primitive days, and their children therefore grew up with but little educational advantages. This fact, however, did not hinder them from having a good degree of common sense, industry and business management, in which they have set good examples. Most of the life of Mr. Isaacs has been passed in agriculture, and all in Hamilton Township. He was married, September 7, 1873, to Martha A. Robertson, a sketch of whose parents appears elsewhere in this work. To this matrimonial union have been born six children, of whom four are living: Ethel M., Charles, Gracie J. and Cora B. In his political views Mr. Isaacs sympathizes with the Democratic party, and in his social relations he is identified with the P. of H. He has

An obituary for Samuel:

Samuel W. Robertson, 93, retired farmer and life-long resident of Jackson county, died shortly before noon Saturday at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Alan Murray, in the Pleasant Grove neighborhood. Although in failing health for some time, due to his advanced age, Mr. Robertson had been ill for only three weeks prior to his death.

The son of a pioneer Jackson county couple, Mr. Robertson was born in this county on November 8, 1856, the son of William M. and Elizabeth M. Sewell Robertson, both deceased. On May 29, 1887, he was married in Brownstown to Sarah Jane Cole, who preceded him in death in January, 1934. . . .

Survivors include one son, Guy R. Robertson, of the Pleasant Grove neighborhood, on a Brownstown rural route; one half-brother, J. W. Robertson, of Mitchell; eight grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday . . . Burial in Fairview Cemetery, Brownstown. . . .^[698]

Robertson, in the 22nd District, for some term after 1917, since 1917 was the last year mentioned in which he held office:

Born in Jackson County, Indiana, January, 22, 1867. Came to Holt County in a “prairie schooner” in 1883. Farmer and stockman. Live on, own and operate a farm of several hundred acres. Have a large family and am very much interested in the educational, moral and financial welfare of this state and district. My interests are all in and with this district and if elected my best efforts will be for this district and for the practical conduct of the state’s business and for lower taxes.

Member of House of Representatives from Holt County in 1895 and 1897 and of the State Senate in 1913, 1915 and 1917. Have never held any other county or state office.

The following letter was published in the Brownstown Banner, Brownstown, Jackson Co., Ind., on 26 Jan. 1927:

Joy, Nebraska, Jan. 7, 1927

Mr. John R. Cooley.

Brownstown, Ind.

Friend John: It was like a clap of thunder out of a clear sky to get your photograph and card and I thank you very much for them. I do not hear from any of our old "gang" very often any more and have lost track of most of them. . . .

Well John, your picture is not the picture of the John Cooley I remember and I would not have known you at all by the picture. Just think 43 years since we left old Jackson county to seek fame and fortune in the "wild and wooly west" and John I am glad we came west.

Forty-three years of the world's most wonderful progress. I remember the time the first telephone line was put in from Seymour to Cortland and how we all wondered how a man in one place could talk so far and be heard. The Radio, the Flying machine and the Sub-marine, etc., there never was and I doubt if there ever will be another 43 years of such wonderful progress but we can't tell.

I suppose it will be appropriate to tell you something of ourselves. Sister Norna and family are now in Nashville, Tenn. They had a large family, now mostly grown up and scattered out. Her address is Mrs. O. E. Ott, 1016 Spain Avenue, Nashville, Tenn. Sister Anna also had a large family, and they are mostly all in Nebraska. Her address is Mrs. H. J. Worth, Bancroft, Neb. My mother, "Aunt Harriet Dowden" as you knew her, is still living and is here with us. She is almost 89 years old and about five years ago had a stroke of paralysis which left her almost helpless but she can push a light rocking chair from one room to another only, but she is failing all the time.

As to myself, there is not much to tell, married the best woman on earth except your wife, of course, and raised 12 children, 6 boys and 6 girls, 4 of the boys and 4 of the girls are married and all living in Nebraska, but one boy, John A. Robertson, who is in business at 5330 Broadway, Chicago, Ill. Two of the boys are living on farms of our own near us here and one near Sioux City, Iowa, but in Nebraska. I have tried to live a moral life but have been sent to Lincoln, Neb., six times, two times as Representative and four times as state senator. I also served on the State Board during the World War.

We are not wealthy but we have managed to pay our honest debts and now have about 2600 acres of pretty good land, free of encumbrance with stock and implements sufficient for our own use. We have sent all the children through college as they became old enough and our two youngest are now going to school in O'Neill, 12 miles, and they stay at home and drive the Ford back and forth every day. We do not farm as heavy as we did a few years ago as we only do what we can do with our own force. One daughter is attending the state university at Lincoln and the youngest is teaching school near home. . . .

Your friend,
John Robertson^[771]

On 10 Aug. 1927 a frontpage story in the Brownstown Banner, Jackson Co., Ind., was headlined: "Former Citizen May Be Governor | John A. Robertson Mentioned For High Office In Nebraska | Native of Hamilton | Served in Nebraska Legislature Six Years—Prominent in Democratic Circles." The effort apparently did not gain sufficient support. An interesting sentence reads: "He is a unique in that he always wears a soft black shirt."^[772]

In 1930 John A. Robertson, 63, a farmer born in Indiana of a father born in Virginia and a mother in Ohio, resided in Paddock Twp., Holt Co., Nebr., with his wife, Rachel R., 60, born in Maryland of Maryland natives, and with his daughter, Rebecca M., 21, and sons, James A., 19, and Richard W., 17, all born in Nebraska, and one servant and one hired hand. John (Sr.) was first married at 19, and Rachel at 16.^[773]

A golden wedding announcement gives their family structure:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Persinger, well-known and highly respected citizens, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home about three miles east of Brownstown Sunday, July 29, 1923.

About three hundred relatives and friends gathered at the Persinger home with well-filled [sic] baskets. At the noon hour a bounteous dinner was spread on a long table which had been built on the lawn of which all partook.

Mrs. Persinger is the oldest daughter of James and Phoebe Robertson, deceased, and was born in Hamilton township March 13, 1850. She was married to Henry Persinger July 29, 1873. They went to house keeping in Hamilton township, where they lived on a farm until 1881, when they moved to Brownstown township, where they have since resided. For several years Mr. Persinger conducted a store at Shieldstown. Mr. Persinger is seventy-six years of age and Mrs. Persinger is seventy-four. Both are enjoying good health. They have five children: John of Indianapolis, Mrs. Rose Peters and Miss Bertie, who live at home, Jim of Shieldstown and Mrs. Carrie Fosbrink of Brownstown township who were all present Sunday. They also have eleven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Those who were present who attended the wedding fifty years ago, were Mrs. Persinger's sisters and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Knost, Mrs. Esther Short, Mrs. Clara Rust, Mrs. Rose Roberts, Andrew F. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. John Manion and son, Dempsey:

An obituary for Florence:

We are called upon to announce the death of Mrs. Florence Idelza Schmitt, which took place at the family residence on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. She was the daughter of William Robertson, deceased, and was born within a few steps of her uncle James Robertson's, near Shields, on the 9th of January, 1853. She was married to John M. Schmitt, one of our grocers, June 4, 1879. Her health began declining soon after her marriage, and hopes were entertained that her indisposition might be but temporary. About one year ago these fond hopes began to give way, when it was plain to be seen that consumption was taking a firm hold upon her. She was able to go about some until within the past few weeks. She was well known at Brownstown, having been a domestic in many families there.^[834]

An obituary for Leonidas:

Leonidas Holmes was born May 30, 1848 in Jackson County, Indiana, and died Sep. 24, 1914, at Alva, Okla., aged 66 years, 3 months and 24 days. He was the second son of Daniel and Mary Holmes of Chariton, Iowa, who settled on a farm near Chariton. The old homestead is still in possession of the family.

He was educated in the country schools of Iowa. Mr. Holmes lost his father when he was fifteen years old and the family was left in care of the mother. She succeeded admirably in the task thus left to her. She and the family finished paying for the old homestead and later added another quarter section to their farm, indicative of the thrift and keen management of the early pioneers.

Mr. Holmes was married March 27th, 1870 to Melissa J. Van Voorhis, at Russell, Iowa. To their union were born two daughters, Winona, who died at the age of fourteen, and Mrs. Flora Grimm, of Alva, Okla.

Mr. Holmes leaves a wife, one daughter, four sisters and one brother, and a number of other relatives to mourn his loss. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes moved to Kansas in 1887, locating in Spearville, where they lived four years, and then moved to Hutchinson, Kansas, where they lived seven years.

In 1893, Mr. Holmes made the run from the Kansas border to get a home in the strip. He secured the home on which he lived until his death. . . .

An obituary for Melissa:

Melissa J., the eldest child of Jerome and Mary Elizabeth Van Voorhis, was born near Monongahela City, Penna., on June 12, 1852 and died at her home in Russell, Iowa March 1, 1951 at the age of 97 years, 8 months and 16 days.

In the spring of 1867 the father moved his family to Lucas County settling three miles southwest of Russell at what was called Ragtown. It was here that she was united in marriage to Leonidas Holmes.

To this union were born two daughters, Winona, who died at the age of 14 years and Mrs. Flora Grimm.

In 1887 she, with her husband and daughter, moved to Kansas and later going to Oklahoma, where on September 24, 1914 the husband died, but Mrs. Holmes continued to reside there till 1932 when she and her daughter returned to Russell to make their home.

She leaves to mourn her going her daughter, Mrs. Grimm and a number of nieces and nephews and a host of other relatives and friends. . . .

Funeral services were held Sunday, March 4, 1951 . . . Interment was made in the Russell Cemetery.^[897]

An obituary for Leburna:

Mrs. Leburna Pierce, daughter of Mary and Daniel Holmes, was born in Jackson county, Indiana, on May 23, 1851, and passed from this life at her home in Russell on February 28, 1922.

She moved with her parents from Indiana to Illinois, where they remained about one year when they came to Chariton in the year of 1854 and here she made her home until the time of her marriage.

She was united in marriage to John Pierce on October 20th, 1870. To this union five children were born, three sons and two daughters, all of whom remain and will mourn her loss.

In the year 1878 they moved to the farm southeast of Russell where they remained for twenty-six years, until the year 1904, when they came to Russell, where each of them resided until the time of their death. Mr. Pierce preceded her in death three years ago, passing away September 8, 1918. . . .

Those who mourn her loss are her three sons, Clinton, Oscar and Blaine, of Russell, and two daughters, Mrs. Mrytie McKinley and Mrs. Mary Parker, of Russell; one brother, William Holmes, of Chariton; three sisters, Mrs. George Parsons, of Russell; Mrs. Mann Arnold, of Chariton; Mrs. Frank McKinley, of Avar, Okla.; and fifteen grandchildren, three great grandchildren and many other relatives and friends.

An obituary for John:

John Pierce was born in Franklin county, Ohio, November 30, 1850. His mother died when he was about 10 years of age. In 1863, the family moved to Iowa and settled at Ragtown, in Lucas county.

He married Miss Leburna Holmes October 20, 1870. There were five children in this home, two girls and three boys. They lived on a farm in Benton township for a number of years and then moved to the farm now occupied by their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Minor McKinley. They lived in this home until he retired from the farm in 1904, when they came to Russell, where he died September 8, 1918, at the age of 67 years, 9 months and 8 days.

He leaves his aged widow, two daughters, Mrs. Minor McKinley and Mrs. Harry Parker, and three sons, Clinton, Oscar and Blaine, all of Lucas county. There are also fourteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Smith Harris, of Lenora, Kansas, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Elmer Thompson and Mrs. P. J. McKinley, both of Russell, and a half-brother, William Pierce, of Idaho. . . .

An obituary for Sarah:

Sarah Almorene Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Holmes, was born at Roseville, Ill., on December 13, 1853, and passed away at her home in Russell, Iowa, on March 13, 1928, at the age of 74 years and 3 months.

The deceased was one of a family of eight children which consisted of three boys and five girls. Of this number two brothers, Oscar and Leonidas, and two sisters, Della [sic] and Laburna, preceded her in death.

When she was but a few months old her parents came to Iowa, settling in Lucas county. Here she grew to womanhood and on December 25, 1872, was united in marriage to George Parsons. This union was blessed with four children, two sons, Emory and Walter, and two daughters, Mary Etta and Inez Winona. In 1889, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were called upon to lay away their son, Walter, who was 9 years old. The mother was permitted, however, to see the other three children grow to maturity and establish their own homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons made their home on a farm southeast of Russell until about fourteen years ago, when they moved into town. With the exception of the first few months of her life, she has lived in this community. . . .

An obituary for Jacob:

Jacob Thornton Trees, aged 75 years, passed away from cancer early Monday morning at his ranch home near Heyburn. The deceased had been a resident of the Minidoka project since 1904, with the exception of four years that he resided in Portland and Boise. Mr. Trees was among the first settlers to file on a homestead near Burley.

Deceased was born Feb. 13, 1853, in Illinois. During his early manhood he moved to Missouri where he married Miss Mary Brown in 1877. Only last September Mr. and Mrs. Trees celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. After several years' residence in Missouri, the Trees family removed to Ft. Collins, Colo., where they remained until 1904, when they moved to the Burley neighborhood. For the past three years they have resided near Heyburn.

Surviving are his wife and the following sons and daughter: Mrs. E. C. Moford of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. George Louring of Caldwell; A. E. Trees of Caldwell; Mrs S. H. McClendon of Heyburn; T. R. Trees of Gooding; S. L. and J. W. Trees of Heyburn.

Funeral services, under the auspices of the Seventh Day Adventists, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Gallogly chapel with burial in the Burley cemetery beside the grave of his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Williams, who preceded him in death several years ago.^[907]

An obituary for George:

George T. Robertson, 100, of North Platte, passed away at Great Plains Health on June 30, 2015.

He was born November 20, 1914, in Dickson, TN to George C. and Esther Robertson, but the young family soon moved to a farm near his grandfather outside O'Neill, NE. The farm had no electricity or running water. George attended a one-room grade school near O'Neill, went to high school in town, and attended Hastings College. In 1932, after one year in college, he returned home to teach school and help his father farm, riding his horse 4.5 miles to school and back each day. He quit farming in 1934. He graduated from Hastings College in 1938 with a degree in history and math.

In 1939, George began working for the Farm Security Administration. The next year, at a dance, he met Marjorie Marie Morris, the woman with whom he would spend the next 72 years. They married on March 20, 1942 and would raise three daughters. After spending the early years of their marriage in Omaha and North Platte, George bought a car dealership in Benkelman, NE. In 1969, after 20 years in Benkelman, the family moved to North Platte. George worked for Gateway Realty in North Platte for 10 years before retiring. By then, he and Marjorie had sent all three daughters to college.

George and Marjorie bought an Airstream trailer and over the next years would travel 80,000 miles in the United States, Canada and Mexico with the trailer, often taking their grandchildren along, making friends wherever they would go. They also vacationed in the Caribbean and Hawaii, and traveled across Europe in a VW camper, brought it back to the US, and drove it in Alaska. They were avid bridge players, and George was known to play a hand of poker once in a while, too. He bought his first computer at age 80. He celebrated his 100th birthday at Linden Estates, where he lived after Marjorie died in 2010.

George and Marjorie were active in the Presbyterian Church in North Platte where George was an Elder. George was an active member of Rotary for many years, the Tehama Shrine Temple, and the Masonic Lodge #32 AF&AM. He was a Master Mason for 70 years.

His family and his many friends will remember him for his quick smile, straightforward honesty, generosity, sharp mind, and great good humor. He and Marjorie donated funds to their church, Rotary, the Masons, Mid-Plains Community College building project for health education, and more, and established scholarships at Hastings College and the UNL teacher's college. One of George's last requests was to have his daughter write a check on his account to make a donation he had in mind.

George was preceded in death by his parents; his sister, Doris (Dick) Orth; and his wife, Marjorie.

He is survived by his daughters, Barbara Robertson (James Deen), of Mill Valley, California, Joan (Steve) Windrum, of Gothenburg, and Betty Robertson of Cincinnati; his grandchildren, Roman Windrum, of Omaha, and Carmen (Mike) Ackerman, of Gothenburg; and great-grandchildren, Hudson and Campbell Windrum and Amaya, Arissa, and Ian Ackerman; many nieces and nephews, cousins, his special friend Irene Kihlthau, and many more friends.

Services will be Friday, July 3, 2015. Burial will be at 11 a.m. in the Cozad Cemetery. . . .^[1177]

A. HITE'S GRANT OF SHENANDOAH

The following historical summary of the white settlement of the Shenandoah Valley is from a website and should not be taken as scholarly evidence. For a more scholarly treatment, see Chapter 40 of Cartmell (1909).

A native of Alsace, Germany, Hans Jost Heydt (also spelled Yost or Joist Hite) sailed from Strasburg to New York in 1710. Accounts vary, but popular history reports that he sailed in his own ships, The Brigantine Swift and Schooner Friendship and that he was a German nobleman with the title "Baron". With Hite sailed his wife, Anna Marie (du Bois) and his daughter Mary. Sixteen families also sailed with him to settle his lands in the New World.

Hite and the German settlers remained in Kingston, New York until 1715. By 1717, records indicate that he had settled on the Schuylkill River in Pennsylvania. Hite enjoyed a prosperous life in Pennsylvania, establishing a mill in 1720 that came to be known as Pennypacker's Mills. After increasingly menacing Indian activity in Pennsylvania, Hite and other community leaders petitioned Governor Gordon for protection against the Indians. After his petition was ignored by the Governor, Hite sold his Pennsylvania holdings in 1730 and traveled to the unsettled Shenandoah Valley of Virginia.

In 1731, Hite bought forty thousand acres of land from John Van Meter that came to be known as "Hite's Grant". In October of that year, Hite teamed up with Robert McKoy (McCoy/McKay) and obtained another one hundred thousand acres from Virginia Governor Gooch. In the spring of 1731, Hite settled the area of what is now Shepherdstown, West Virginia, naming it New Mechlenburg. Hite's eldest son, John, traveled further south down the Potomac river and settled on the Opequon Creed [sic, Creek], calling his holdings Springdale. By the June of 1734, the council of Virginia declared that Jost Hite had settled his required number of families and was assigned the patents for his land, leading some to declare that he was the first white settler in the Shenandoah Valley (this has later been disproved as it has been documented that Adam Miller settled in the Valley as early as 1726 or 1727.)

In 1736, legal troubles began. Lord Fairfax arrived from England that same year to settle on his lands granted to him on Virginia's Northern Neck. Some of this land was within the boundary of Hite's land which has not been patented. Fairfax gave his word that the lands would be given to Hite but later reneged on his promise. This led to petitions and a legal battle that lasted for fifty years and was not resolved until both complainants had died. In the end, the decision was in Hite's favor.

[Yost Hite's family:] Both Hite and all of his immediate descendants became important figures in local and national affairs. [Daughters:] Hite's eldest daughter, Mary Hite, married George Bowman and their family accompanied Hite to the Shenandoah Valley. Elizabeth Hite married Paul Froman, a Quaker from New Jersey and lived in the Shenandoah Valley for several years before moving on to Kentucky. Magdelene Hite accompanied her husband, German-born Jacob Chrismann Spring to the Shenandoah. John Hite, as noted earlier, settled at Opequon Creek and built "Springdale" in 1753. He is credited with building the first brick house in the Valley in 1787. [Sons:] John Hite became a decorated veteran of the French and Indian Wars and has been highly regarded in histories of the Valley. Abraham Hite was only two years old when he traveled to the Shenandoah Valley with his family. He married the daughter [Rebecca] of Isaac Van Meter and was a member of the Hampshire County House of Burgesses from 1746 until 1774. Jacob Hite made several trips for his father to Ireland to recruit immigrants to settle in the Valley. On one of these trips he met his wife in Dublin, Catherine O'Bannon and the couple settled with their family in Jefferson County, West Virginia. The family later moved to South Carolina where all but their son (who was attending William and Mary College) and one daughter were killed by Indians around 1777 or 1778. Isaac Hite, commonly referred to as "colonel" settled to the north branch of the Shenandoah River and built the home "Long Meadows". His son, Isaac Hite Jr., married Nelly Conway Madison of Montpelier, Orange County, Virginia, the sister of President James Madison.

Jost Hite died in 1760 and the Hite family became influential figures throughout the northern and lower Valley. Their descendants can be found throughout the United States and gather often at Belle Grove, the home built by Isaac Hite Jr. south of Winchester, Virginia which became famous for the Battle of Cedar Creek during the Civil War.^[1205]

Some pertinent facts from Cartmell's 1909 history of Shenandoah Valley, particularly Chapter 40 about the Jost Hite family:

John, the eldest son married Sara Eltinge of Frederickton, Md., in 1737. . . . Col. John Hite who, as he was known by this title, will be mentioned as Colonel in this sketch, settled with his father on the Opequon six miles South of Winchester, where the Great Road crossed that stream. The father erected a stone house on the West side of the road, also a small mill . . .^[1206]

He [Col. John Hite] died in 1792 . . . John Hite jr., only son of Col. Jno., married Susana Smith, and rebuilt the mill near his father's in 1788.^[1207]

Note that this latter entry proves that the Sarah Hite of the leases was not Sara (Eltinge) Hite, because she refers to John Hite Jr. as deceased in one of the 1779 leases. However, she does not state her relationship.

A better candidate for Sarah married to a John Hite Jr. is suggested by the following snippet, which shows them located in what would become Berkeley County:

Jacob Hite, second son of Joist Hite, chose for his homestead a large tract of land in the northern part of Frederick County . . . It was not long before his settlement acquired the name of Hite's town; but later on, when Berkeley County was formed, and the County seat to be chosen, Hite felt secure in his claim that his village was the most central and offered to dedicate land for a Court House and Public buildings. Martinsburg was then a village and entered the contest. The rivals for the prize were led by two men of pronounced ability, Gen. Adam Stephen for Martinsburg, and Jacob Hite, for his village (Now Leetown). Stephen and his followers

Flowing northward, Opequon Creek enters the Potomac on its west side, above Harper’s Ferry about 15 miles as the crow flies. Southward (upstream) on Opequon about 7 miles (as the crow flies in all cases) is Martinsburg. 5 miles further southward is where Hopewell Run enters Opequon Creek, and roughly 2 miles further southward lies Leetown. Modern Martinsburg, the county seat of Berkeley County, W.Va., features the General Adam Stephen House & Triple Brick Museum.

Online genealogies have John Hite, 1748–1776, son of Jacob Hite and Catherine O’Bannon, married Sarah Nichols, 1746–1831. N.B. Note that this John Hite would have been recently deceased in 1779.

On 25 Oct. 1776 John Hite “Jun” signed his will in Berkeley Co., [W.]Va., and it was proved 18 Mar. 1777. It mentions “my beloved wife Sarah,” “my son Jacob Obanion,” “my father has been unfortunately killed by the hand of violence,” slaves, extensive landholdings (including in South Carolina), “my daughter Mary,” “my sister Mary,” “my sister Elizabeth,” “my children Jacob Obanion Mary Catharine and an Infant unbaptized.”^[1209]

As one further piece of evidence that we have the correct Sarah Hite here:

Jacob Hite, the second son of Jost Hite, was an active, energetic, impulsive man. He was engaged with his father in securing emigrants to the valley and they had ships of their own as will appear by Jacobs will recorded in Berkeley Co.,^[1212] and on one of his trips, while in Dublin, he married Cathrine O'Bannon, and after her death, he married Mrs. Francis Madison Beale, the widow of Tavener Beale, nee Francis Madison. Jacob lives at Hopewell, near Leetown; he sold to Genl. Chas. Lee, and removed to South Carolina before the Revolution, taking with him a part of his family. While there the Indians who had been friendly to him, were instigated by the English, massacred him and his entire family, except one or two small children and a few colored servants. The servants were recovered but no news was ever heard of the children.

Of his children that did not attend him to S.C. there were John Hite, Jr. who died in 1777; Thomas Hite who married Miss Beale; he was in the House of Burgesses and left a large family. Mary Hite married Rev. Mr. Manning. Elizabeth Hite who married Col. Tavener Beale, Jr. George Hite, who was at William and Mary, was in the cavalry service in Revolution . . .^[1213]

B. GENERAL ADAM STEPHEN

The following historical “Biography of Major General Adam Stephen” is from a website.^[1216] It was “Submitted by Marilyn Gouge and extracted from History of Berkeley County, West Virginia, 1928, and Encyclopedia of Virginia Biography, Vol. II, Prominent Persons, 1915.”

Adam Stephen was born in Virginia about 1730. He was probably the one man who did the most for establishing Berkeley County – he purchased the land where Martinsburg stands now and land surrounding it from Colonel T. B. Martin, who had purchased the last remaining portion of the once princely estate of Lord Fairfax. He was commissioned the first sheriff of the county and founded the town of Martinsburg by laying out 130 acres of land into lots and streets. After the Virginia Assembly had learned what Sheriff Stephen had done, it promptly established the town of Martinsburg, October 18, 1778. Other towns were competing for the honor of being named the county seat, but Adam Stephen, by persuasion and use of sound judgment, contrived to have the capital of the county placed as near the center of it as possible, the counties of Jefferson and Morgan being with the boundaries of Berkeley County at that time.

Adam Stephen raised a company of infantry from that section when the French and Indian War broke out and was ordered by Colonel Washington to appear in Winchester, Virginia, which he did March 12, 1754, to start for the frontier. By the death of Colonel Fry, the command fell to Washington, and Stephen was made a major. On August 14 of that year the regiment, to which Major Stephen belonged, was reorganized; Washington was made Colonel, Stephen was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, and Andrew Lewis to Major. At Great Meadows, this army surrendered Fort Necessity, but the army marched back to Fort Cumberland.

He was at Braddock and helped to cover the retreat of that shattered army. In the absence of Washington, Stephen commanded the forces at Winchester where he set out in 1756 with an expedition against the Creeks for the relief of the colonists of South Carolina. He was present at the final capture of Fort Duquesne, and aided in defending the Virginia frontier against the Indians (1763–68). He had been commissioned a Brigadier-General in the State Militia in 1769 and was placed in command of Fort Loudon frontier against further depredations by the Indians. It was at this time that the State of Virginia gave him the commission of Brigadier-General, the state fully recognizing his ability as a soldier after 14 years of continuous service in the defense of frontiers of that state's western territory.

When the Revolutionary War began in 1775, Stephen was placed in charge of one of its regiments by the Virginia Legislature. Isaac Read was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel and Robert Lawson was made Major, February 13, 1776, and transferred to the Continental Line. On September 4, 1776, he was commissioned by Congress a Brigadier-General in the Continental Army, a higher rank than that of Brigadier-General in the State Militia. On February 9, 1777, he was promoted to the rank of Major-General. He fought with Washington at Trenton and Princeton and was in the 90-mile retreat through the Jerseys. At the Battle of Brandywine, he led an attacking party, but because of dense fog, his division fired and became involved in combat with the troops of General Anthony Wayne. Stephen was held responsible for the blunder, was charged with “unofficer-like conduct” and “intoxication,” was found guilty and dismissed from the Army. History has proven that General Stephen contributed in no way to the disaster met by the Americans on that day, that he was too harshly dealt with, and that Washington wanted an opportunity to place his friend and favorite, the Marquis de Lafayette, to a position as an officer in the American Army. That appointment was approved and Lafayette held the position vacated by General Stephen.

Lord Dunmore appointed General Stephen one of the Justices of the first Court of Berkeley County. Martinsburg was then a cluster of houses occupying the site of an Indian village of the Tuscaroras and was known as Morgan's Springs. It was at the house of Edward Beesom, situated on the farm of George Tremble, Esq. — known as the “Red House” that the Court of the County was held. He was elected a delegate, with General William Darke, to ratify or reject the Constitution of the United States in 1788. A letter written by General Stephen prior to the Revolutionary War, setting forth and vindicating the stand taken by the colonies, expressed fully his views on that subject; he, therefore, voted for the adoption of the constitution.

General Stephen died at Martinsburg in November 1791 and was buried on the estate of ex-Senator Charles James Faulkner. A monument, a rectangular pyramid with a base of 20 feet, 9 feet high, marks the spot of his grave. It was situated on the right of South Queen Street at the northeast corner of the Martinsburg High School grounds. The large stones used in the construction, the largest of them 12 feet in length, were of hard silicious mountain stone and not native to the area, so they had to be transported from a distance. This monument was thrown down and destroyed at one time to where it's height was only 4 feet; the D.A.R. restored it to its original height, the top being surrounded by a pyramid of cannon balls from the Civil War. It is not known who first erected the monument, since there are no records.

C. GENERAL CHARLES LEE

The following historical “Biography of Major General Charles Lee” is from a website.^[1217] It was “submitted by Marilyn Gouge and extracted from Encyclopedia of Virginia Biography, Vol. II, Prominent Persons, 1915, and The Twentieth Century Biographical Dictionary of Notable Americans, Volume VI, 1904.”

Charles Lee was born in Dernhall, Cheshire, England, in 1731, the youngest son of John and Isabella (Bunbury) Lee. He received a classical education and then devoted himself to a study of the art of war. His father died in 1751 and in the same year he was commissioned lieutenant in the 44th Regiment of which his father had been colonel. He was ordered to America in 1754; the regiment was attached to Braddock’s army in Virginia and, after the disastrous defeat of July 9, 1755, marched to Albany and Schenectady, where Lee met Sir William Johnson and was adopted by the Mohawk Indians. He purchased a captain’s commission June 11, 1756, and was severely wounded in Abercrombie’s assault on Ticonderoga, July 1, 1758. He was present at the capture of Fort Duquesne and went to Crown Point, New York, where he joined General Amherst and, in 1760, took part in the capture of Montreal.

He returned to England and, on August 10, 1761, was promoted major in the 103rd Regiment. After service in Burgoyne’s division in Portugal, in 1762 he organized a project for establishing new colonies in America to be recruited from Germany, Switzerland and New England. The British ministry refused to approve the plan, and he went to Poland in 1764 where he was appointed to the staff of the King and accompanied the Polish embassy to Turkey in 1766. Charles Lee returned to England in 1766 and unsuccessfully urged his claims to promotion. He accepted a commission as major-general in the Polish army in 1769 and made a campaign against the Turks, after which he publicly derided his superior officers and left the army. He visited Italy in 1770, returned to England, was in France and Switzerland, 1771-72, and on May 25, 1772, was promoted lieutenant-colonel in the British army and placed on half-pay. Disappointed, he arrived in America November 10, 1773, made the acquaintance of the revolutionary leaders, was in Philadelphia during the session of the continental congress, and attracted attention with his expressed knowledge of military science.

Charles Lee purchased an estate in Berkeley County, Virginia, near the estate of Horatio Gates. He was commissioned second major-general in the continental army in June 1775. The friends of Lee, notably Thomas Mifflin, earnestly urged his claims for first place against Artemas Ward and, when forced to second place, Lee mercilessly ridiculed the military skill of General Ward. He refused to accept until promised indemnity for any pecuniary loss he might suffer by accepting a commission, and congress assented. On July 22 of that year he resigned his commission and half-pay in the British army and joined Washington in his journey to Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he was placed in command of the left wing of the army, with headquarters at Winter Hill. When Sir Henry Clinton left Boston on his southern expedition, General Lee was sent to Newport, Rhode Island, and in January 1776, proceeded to New York where he directed the fortifying of the harbor. When the news of the death of Montgomery at Quebec reached Philadelphia, General Lee was made commander of the army in Canada, but when Clinton's destination was found to be the southern states, Lee was transferred to the command of the department of the South and went from New York to Virginia, where he organized the cavalry and advocated a speedy Declaration of Independence. He reached Charleston, South Carolina, with his army, June 4, 1776, the same day the British fleet entered the harbor with the troops of Clinton and Cornwallis. General Moultrie had constructed a fort of palmetto wood on Sullivan's Island, which Lee proposed to abandon as indefensible, but through the efforts of President Rutledge, the fort was garrisoned and in the battle of June 28, 1776, Moultrie prevented the British fleet from making a landing and Lee was given the credit of the victory and became popularly known as the "Hero of Charleston."

General Lee proposed to invade Florida, but Congress ordered him to report to Philadelphia, where he received $30,000 indemnity for losses by the sequestration of his property in England. Lee arrived in New York, October 14, 1776, and assumed command of the right wing of the army on Harlem Heights. The acceptance of the resignation of General Ward in May 1776 made Lee senior major-general. On November 16, 1776, the British captured Fort Mifflin and forced Washington to defend Philadelphia. Washington had left Lee with 7,000 men in Westchester County and when ordered to join Washington's army in New Jersey, Lee failed to obey. Washington was, therefore, forced to fall back to Princeton with 3,000 men, which place he reached December 2, 1776, and the same day Lee moved across the river and encamped at Morristown with 4,000 men. General Schuyler had sent Gates from Ticonderoga with seven regiments to reinforce Washington, but Lee diverted the march and detained three of the regiments at Morristown. Washington was subsequently forced back across the Delaware River into Pennsylvania. This situation gave Lee the opportunity he desired and he industriously circulated reports of Washington's military incapacity. Holding a strong position at Morristown, he planned to fall on the flank of Howe's army and if possible secure a victory that would give him the command of the American army.

On December 13, 1776, a party of British dragoons surprised him at his headquarters at Baskingridge, 4 miles from his camp at Morristown, and made Lee, with his staff, prisoners, carrying them to New York City. General Sullivan, second in command, promptly broke camp at Morristown and reached Washington's army in time to take part in the successful movements on Trenton and Princeton. General Lee was refused the privileges of a prisoner of war and was ordered to be sent to England for trial as a deserter. Washington, to prevent this, wrote General Howe that he held five Hessian field officers as hostages for General Lee's personal safety and, on December 12, 1776, Lee was declared a prisoner of war subject to exchange (it was later learned that during his imprisonment in New York, he planned a campaign against the American army which he claimed would result in the easy subjugation of the colonies, the identical plan, dated March 29, 1777, being discovered among the private papers of the Howes in 1857. Those papers were obtained in Nova Scotia and secured at a sale in New York). He was exchanged in May 1778 and joined Washington at Valley Forge. In June, when Sir Henry Clinton planned to retreat from Philadelphia across New Jersey to New York, Washington determined to oppose his march. General Lee advised against risking a battle, and his opposition was so determined that Washington appointed Lafayette to the command of Lee's division. When Lee overtook the British near Monmouth Court House, June 28, 1778, his conduct aroused the suspicion of Lafayette, who dispatched an aide to Washington, who was bringing up the other division, asking him to hasten to the front, and when he reached Freehold Church he saw Lee's division in retreat, closely pursued by the British. The commander-in-chief charged Lee with disobeying his orders, and, assuming command, rallied the Americans and defeated the British, after which he ordered Lee to the rear. The next day he reinstated Lee in his old command, in spite of which Lee addressed an exasperating letter to General Washington, to which Washington made a severe reply. Washington ordered Lee under arrest and, in August 1778, he was tried for disobeying orders in not attacking the enemy; for making an unnecessary and disorderly retreat; and for disrespect to the commander-in-chief in two letters. Lee was found guilty on all and was suspended for 12 months. He at once reopened his charges against Washington and was challenged by Colonel John Laurens, Washington's aide-de-camp, which resulted in Lee's being severely wounded in the arm. He subsequently addressed a letter to congress which caused him to be dismissed from the army and he retired to his Virginia home until the close of the war. While on a visit to Philadelphia he was stricken with fever and died alone and friendless at the tavern at which he was stopping, October 2, 1782. He was the author of "Strictures on a Friendly Address to all Reasonable Americans, in reply to Dr. Myles Cooper" (1774); and "Mr. Lee's Plan" (1777). He claimed to know the secret of the authorship of the "Junius" letters and afterwards acknowledged himself as the author, which statement called out a number of articles and books in refutation of his claims.

D. ROBERTSON HEIRS DISPOSE OF HARDY CO. PROPERTY

The following two deeds from 1818 and 1820 are genealogical godsend. They detail the heirs of Blaze and Hannah Robertson, and they specify the properties owned in Hardy Co., [W.]Va., which were disposed of, as explained formally in the following, as the family set up its new residence in Jackson Co., Ind. (For ease of reading, I have broken this into paragraphs not present in the original):

E. OLD BAILEY PROCEEDINGS 2 MAY 1764

The following is a transcription of the proceedings trial against Blaze Robertson and William Forden, held at the Old Bailey in London on 2 May 1764. They were both convicted of stealing and sentenced to seven years transportation to America.^[1220]

260, 261. (M.) Blaze Robinson, and William Forden, were indicted for stealing twenty-nine stuff gowns, value 3 l. four crape gowns, value 12 s. two cotton gowns, ten linen bed-gowns, eight flannel petticoats, fifteen shirts, six shirts, four cloth cloaks, twelve pair of shoes, six pair of worsted stockings, six pair of cotton stockings, and two dozen linen caps, the property of Margaret Clough, widow, privately in her shop, March 9. ‡

Margaret Clough. I keep a sale-shop in Monmouth-street. On the 9th of March I locked up my shop, and on the 10th, in the morning, it was broke open.

Q. Is it a dwelling house?

M. Clough. It is not. I do not live in it; it is a small place by itself; I missed the things mentioned in the indictment (mentioning them by name): I went to Sir John Fielding, and had them advertised in the Monday's paper. On Tuesday, the 13th, Mr. Stockdale, a pawnbroker, sent for me; I went to his house, and there I saw two crape gowns, my property: then he and I went to Justice Fielding's, and got a warrant to take up the two prisoners: they confessed the fact before Mr. Fielding. I mentioned all I could recollect at that time I had lost; they in general owned to the fact; they said they had pawned the rest, some in one place, and some in another, in several parts of the town. I have recovered some of the other things, according to their directions, and the pawnbrokers all gave me my goods again, that is, all I could find (five gowns and several other things produced in court): there are what I have recovered, my property.

1220. Old Bailey Proceedings: Accounts of Criminal Trials, 2 May 1764, from <londonlives.org>, accessed 13 Feb. 2021, dataset currently held at Harvard University Library, LL ref: t1764502-36, pp. 165-166, page images online.

Henry Stockdale. I am a pawnbroker, and live in Great Pultney-street, Golden-square. Forden brought these two crape gowns to me, on the 13th of March, and said, one was his mother's, and the other his sisters: I sent my boy to his mother, in the Haymarket, with him, but he did not return with the boy, but came a day or two after, and Robinson came along with him, to fetch the gowns, and we detected them. At Sir John Fielding's, Robinson told Sir John where the things were pledged; Forden did not confess any thing; he said he was sent by some girl from a public-house: (the two gowns produced and deposed to.)

James Hunt. I am a pawnbroker, in Pultney-street: I took this gown in of Forden, (produced and deposed to); he brought it on the 15th of March, and said his mother's name was Jane Robinson, and she lived in the Haymarket, and it was her gown. Here are other gowns which we took in: one in the name of John Robinson, another Robert Robinson, and another Thomas Johnson. (Deposed to by prosecutrix.)

Joseph Jervis. On the 15th or 16th of March, I took the prisoners before Sir John Fielding; he sent one to the Gatehouse, and the other to another place, Robinson confessed a good deal, in regard to breaking open the woman's shop, in Monmouth street; Sir John granted a search warrant to search Forden's lodgings; I went there, but could find nothing: he said, he kept a cobbler's stall, on the top of the Haymarket; I went there, and found a bundle of things, and gave it to the prosecutrix; she said they were her property, part of what she lost at the time her shop was broke: when I got into the stall, and was there the best part of 20 minutes, the things were partly buried under ground (produced in court, and deposed to); then I went to Robinson's lodgings, and in a great coat pocket, I found a pair of stockings. (Produced and deposed to.)

Robinson's Defence.

I was in Forden's stall, and two men came in and left a pair of shoes and a pair of pumps, to heel-piece, when they said they would call again in a day or two: they left these things there: we wanted money, and we pawned them; we are innocent of taking them.

Forden's Defence.

I was not in the stall when the men brought the things, I knew nothing at all of it, I was gone to dinner; the two men came for the shoes, and put the bundle down upon the bulk, and said they would call again in half an hour, and give me the money for mending the shoes, but they never called.

For the Prisoners.

John Hodgson. I knew Robinson by sight: I have heard he has a very good character.

Henry Bourn. I have known Forden some years; he has a very good character.

Jane Davenport. Forden is a very honest and industrious lad.

Anne Hudson. I have known Forden from a child: I know no harm of him.

Both guilty of stealing, but not privately in the shop.

F. WEBB FAMILY HISTORY

The following is a transcription of pages 55–58 of Love (1950). It is the beginning of a section of that book titled “Family History (Mrs. Howard).” We determine from the section details that its author, Mrs. Howard, was Mary Virginia⁵ (Webb) Howard, using her generation numbering system (which matches ours). In particular, she was the granddaughter of John³ Webb, son of James² Webb (John¹ Webb) and his wife Hester² Robertson (Blaze¹). In our nomenclature, she was Mary Virginia⁵ (Richard⁴, John³, James², John¹ Webb).^[1221]

This places her two generations away from the persons of most interest to us in the Robertson genealogy, namely the children of James² Webb and Hester² Robertson. That’s one generation further away than I usually tolerate for hearsay information. In this case, however, I have checked the dates from other sources and have found them almost always supportive of Mrs. Howard’s (more detailed) dates. Hence I am comfortable in using her detailed dates, surely taken directly from the family, although I make clear my source for them in case it turns out to be unreliable. I have found only one error in her work (presented below): She has Thomas³ Webb married to “Beck” Thorp. He actually married Rebecca Brill, who married Solomon Thorp after Thomas³ Webb’s death.

John Webb, who died in 1808 and was the father of James and the father-in-law of Hester R. Webb had a tan yard on South Branch Mountain, Hardy County, Virginia. His son James carried on the business until his death, 1872. It was operated by others until around 1900. All of the sons in this family learned this trade.

A “pass” in the mountain was called “Clifford’s Hollow” and led to the Potomac Valley and “Old Fields”. It was two to three miles through this pass to “Old Fields.” The tan yard was approximately seven miles from Moorefield—to the East—Route 23 led to that section (in 1933). There is a post office known (in 1933) as Fabius, West Virginia. Very near this is the site of the tan yard and home of the Webb Family where Hettie spent her married life and died. I'd say 1867-8 (see later).

1221. Love (1950), 55–58, 61. In particular, she was (p. 58) “Mary Virginia Webb⁵ (John¹, James², John³, Richard⁴) | Born October 14, 1886 | Married Peyton Barnett Howard II at Muscogee Indian Territory on April [penciled in correction: February] 26, 1905.”

The family buried their dead on the land near the house. Later generations buried the dead in a churchyard I think called Asbury Church which is near. The early graves were marked only with field stones. This was near the site of an old settlement called the "Bean Settlement." In 1933 when I was there, the neighborhood was still called "The Bean Settlement."

Regarding the date of death of Hettie R. Webb, I found an old unsigned deed among my grandfather's papers year ago. It is dated October 1868. My grandfather, his wife, and his brother William who lived here, transferred to their brother George still living in Hardy County, all rights and titles to their father's estate "in consideration of attentions and services required by their declining years whilst said J and W resided in a distant state and were precluded from rendering such attentions and services to their aged parents." Now the father, James, died in Hardy County, July 3rd, 1862. Now why this long wait unless the mother was still living? I'd make a guess she died late in 1867 or early 1868.

George Webb, son of James and Hettie R. Webb resided in Hardy County until around 1870 and was head of a large family. He went to Cedar County, Missouri and died there.

John Webb came to Kentucky in the fall-winter of 1838-39 ~~with family~~ [scratched out in pencil] to join others of the Van Meter family here—also to join the Shelby family. John (my grandfather) became Overseer for a Van Meter - William, until his death was connected with the Shelby family - especially the brother of Governor Isaac Shelby, 1st Governor of Kentucky. The Van Meters came from Hardy County, the Shelby's from "the valley" and along the Maryland line, not far distant as you know.

Also, my grandfather and his brother came directly into this section of Kentucky. They did not own land until they purchased it in this Fayette County - some of it still in our family possession. One hundred years ago this spring, my grandparents returned from their bridal trip to Hardy County. They were married here September 7, 1848 and went horseback to spend the winter with the parents of the groom. At that time, 1848-9, Hannah and Catherine, unmarried daughters of James and Hester Webb, were living at home "on South Branch Mountain" with their parents, as was the youngest son Thomas. James, another son, might have been at home or living nearby. Of the first three I am positive. I've heard my grandmother tell of it many times. Hester was living then as we know. I have a quilt made by Hannah and Catherine that winter and given as a bridal gift to my grandmother.

HAMILTON-ROBERTSON BIBLE, 1850^[1224]

[Marriages:]

John R. Hamilton and Esther Robertson, married Nov. 19, 1835.

Births:

John R. Hamilton, 3/21/1812.
Esther Hamilton, 11/1/1818.
James H. Hamilton, 12/28/1837.
William H. Hamilton, 3/21/1840.
Rebecca Hamilton, 3/29/1842.
Dallas W. Hamilton, 6/19/1844.
Mary E. Hamilton, 1/25/1847.
Sarah C. Hamilton, 6/18/1849.
Belledona [C.]^[1225] Hamilton, 11/29/1851.
George R. Hamilton, 9/24/1854.
Andrew W. [sic, should be L.]^[1226] Hamilton, 6/2/1857.

Births:

John R. Robertson, 12/18/1782.
Elizabeth Hamilton, 10/7/1791.
Hannah Robertson, 2/24/1811.
Blaze Robertson, 8/8/1814.
Sally Robertson, 5/20/1816.
Esther Robertson, 11/1/1818.

1224. Historical and Genealogical Records Pertaining to Jackson Co., Ind. (1952), 68-69, "Owned by Berte McCormick, Brownstown, Ind." N.B. The actual Bible pages appear as Figure 17-Figure 18. This DAR transcription contains three apparent errors, as noted, suggesting two different Bibles.

1225. The middle initial C. from the actual Bible entry is missing from this transcription (assuming they are records of the same Bible).

1226. The middle initial should be L. from the actual Bible entry (if indeed these are the same Bible).

William M. Robertson, 3 [sic, should be 1]/12/1821.^[1227]
George Robertson, 5/5/1823.

Deaths:

Dallas W. Hamilton, 7/12/1845.
Belladonna C. Hamilton, 2/23/1856.

BLAZE ROBERTSON MEDICAL BOOK^[1228]

Births - Children of Blaze Robertson:

Nancy Robertson, 7/15/1774.
Esther Robertson, 1/20/1779.
James Robertson, 2/10/1781.
John Robertson, 12/18/1782.
William Robertson, 11/15/1784.
Rebecca Robertson, 11/15/1786.
Rachel Robertson, 1/31/1789.
George Robertson, 8/6/1791.

Births - Children of William Robertson:

James Robertson, 12/5/1819.
John Robertson, 9/15/1821.
Rebecca Robertson, 11/27/1823.
William Robertson, 12/8/1827.
Mary Robertson, 1/31/1831.

WILLIAM M. ROBERTSON BIBLE, 1858^[1229]

Births:

William M. Robertson, 3/12/1821.

1227. The date should be 1/12/1821 from the actual Bible entry.

1228. Historical and Genealogical Records Pertaining to Jackson Co., Ind. (1952), 81, "Dedicated to Dr. Shaw, who died 12/29/1689."

1229. Historical and Genealogical Records Pertaining to Jackson Co., Ind. (1952), 81-82, "Owned by Allan and Sarah Louise Robertson Murray." Compare the actual Bible pages in Figure 19-Figure 22, also a William M. Robertson from 1858. But this DAR transcription differs from it in so many places that I assume there must be two different Bibles.

Elizabeth M. Sewell, 11/12/1829.
[Margaret L. Jacobs, 2/26/1836]^[1230]
Mary Ann [sic, should be A.]^[1231] Robertson, 7/5/1850.

Samuel W. Robertson, born 11/8/1856 | Sarah J. Cole, born
6/29/1862 } Married 5/29/1887.

1230. This item from the actual Bible record is missing from this DAR transcription.

1231. Only the middle initial appears in the actual Bible record (assuming these refer to the same Bible).

1232. Only the middle initial appears in the actual Bible record.

1233. The name Robertson appears twice in the actual Bible record.

1234. The name Robertson appears twice in the actual Bible record.

1235. "Daughter" is capitalized in the actual Bible record.

for the ROBERTSON-HAMILTON FAMILY book:

Second title page: " Nancy Robertson, 1777-1807, buried with BLAZE, about one mile west of Lost River & 1/2 mile south ". See picture.

Page 78, first section, " born in 1749 " should be " born in 1742" since his grave marker reads " in memory of Blaze Robertson who departed this life on the 27th day of Jany in the year of our Lord 1810 in the 67 year of his age." 1809 - 67 = 1742. See pictures below.

" in 1761 " probably should be nearer " in 1754 " that he came to America.

Pages 118 & 119. Ada Wise & Clara Wilkins stated that it had been reported that BLAZE was buried on the mountain west of his home. June 21, 1976 we received a letter from James A. Funkhouser, 1327 Rudy Drive, Troy, OH 45373, a nephew of Clara Wilkins, stating that several years ago he had found the markers of BLAZE & NANCY in a Wilkins cemetery about one mile west of Lost River & 1/2 south of the road. There are two stones with the following:

" In memory of Blaze Robertson who departed this life on the 27th day of Jany in the year of our Lord 1810 in the 67 year of his age."

" In memory of Nancy Robertson who departed this life on the 21st day of Oct in the year of our Lord 1807 in the 30 year of her age."

We had Clara check to see if the markers for BLAZE & NANCY were still there. They are still there & in good shape. So, Sept.24 1976 Chelsea; my nephew, Mike Hawkins; & I went to picture the markers you see below. The following map shows the correct location of the graves.

PLEASE INSERT IN THE ROBERTSON-HAMILTON FAMILY BOOK. 1976.

Dear Mr. Roberts:

This will acknowledge our receipt of the Blaze Robertson Account Book. This is a wonderful acquisition for our society. We will show it to our regular membership meeting next week. In the meantime it has been already put on display at West Virginia's First Statewide Conference on Historic Preservation in Wheeling on October 24, 25, 26 at Oglebay Park, where it was much admired.

We particularly wish to express our appreciation for your thoughtfulness in returning it to the place of origin. This type of original item is so hard to come by. In addition, the mounting of it in plastic and with the several page extracts in the green felt case was so nicely done that everyone who has seen it has just about been overwhelmed.

I am sure I speak for our entire membership and for many other persons in this community when I express our gratitude for your kind and generous gesture. We hope this will set a precedent that will be widely followed in returning historic items to their place of origin.

We are naturally awaiting with great interest the publication of your Robertson-Hamilton book.

Sincerely,

Francis Silver, 5th
President
for The General Adam Stephen Memorial Association

TEN POUNDS REWARD.

RAN away from Onion's Iron-Works, in Baltimore County, on Sunday Night the 2d of this Inst Sept. Three Convict Servant Men, viz. John White, an Irishman, 5 Feet 9 Inches high, 23 Years of Age, of a fair Complexion, short Hair, talks very pert, and has a very remarkable Scar just above his Ankle, on the Inside of his right Leg; Had on when he went away, an old Hat cock'd up two Ways, an old black Jacket, and Onnabrigs Shirt and Trowsers.

Thomas Matthews, an Irishman, 23 Years of Age, 5 Feet 9 or 10 Inches high, of a swarthy Complexion, wears his own Hair which curls very well, a broad Face, pitted with the Small-Pox, talks very thick, and chews Tobacco: Had on and with him, when he went away, a Dutch Cap, blue Serge Sailor's Jacket with small Buttons on each Side, a Check shirt, two Frocks, Canvas Trowsers, ribb'd Worsted Stockings, and good Shoes, and Buckles. He has been but a short Time in the Country, & is supposed to be a Sailor.

John Jordan, about 20 Years of Age, 5 Feet 4 Inches high, of a modest Look, and yellow Complexion: Had on when he went away, a Wig, brown Coat and Breeches, a flower'd Jacket, good Shoes and Stockings, and sundry other Cloaths in a Bundle.

All Masters of Vessels, and others, are forbid to carry them off at their Peril.

Whoever secures said Servants, and brings them to their Master, shall have, if taken in the County, Three Pounds; if out of the County, Six Pounds; and if out of the Province, the above Reward; and in Proportion for either, with reasonable Charges.
